Mother's Arrest Asked After Boy Says He Saw Her Strike Sister, Slain

New York Police Say Mother Gives Story of Being Attacked by Man on Long Island Sunday Afternoon.

GIRL BURNED

Gasoline Had Been Poured on Child's Clothing, Ignited—Boy's Throat Cut.

Brookhaven, N. J., May 17 (AP)—Police Chief Edwin N. Bridge said today he asked the arrest of Mrs. Helen Tiernan, in New York after her 5-year-old wounded son told him he saw her hit his sister. The boy's 7-year-old sister was found burned to death in a woods yesterday afternoon, and the boy was found nearby.

Mrs. Tiernan was questioned at the West 47th street station in New York. Police said she acknowledged there that she was the mother of the children and that she also gave a version of the slaying in which she said she and the children were attacked by a strange man.

"Relative to the arrest of Helen Tiernan by detectives of the New York police department we have sent representatives of the four different investigating bodies to bring the woman here," the chief said in a statement. "A confidential alarm was sent out at 9:30 a. m. after the child

Brookhaven, N. Y., May 17 (AP).—The incoherent talk of an injured 4-year-old boy today was the only aid to Suffolk county police in their search for a solution to the brutal murder of an 8-year-old girl, the boy's sister.

The children remained unidentified. Raymond Cataldo of Riverhead, who thought they were his children whom he had not seen for a number of years, later found that his children were safe with their mother in Brooklyn.

The girl's body was found yesterday afternoon in a thicket a hundred yards east of this south shore village. Her throat was slashed and her body was burned. Gasoline had been poured on her clothing and ignited.

The little boy, who indicated he was her brother, was found a few feet away. He lay as if asleep. He had been stabbed and also burned.

The identification of the girl and boy, who was found nearby alive, but with his throat cut, was difficult police work.

Police said an effort apparently had been made to kill them both with a knife or ax, the slayer attempting to cover up evidence by burning both bodies.

Girl's Throat Cut

The girl's throat was cut, and her body was badly blistered across the shoulders, along the back, and down the legs. Her hands were lacerated. Police said they believed she had died of the burns.

The boy had a four-inch gash in his throat, but at the hospital attendants said he was expected to recover. His clothing was singed, but he was not seriously burned.

The girl's body was found by a young couple walking through the thicket. Investigators found the boy lying down as if asleep about two hours later. Medical men believed the attacks had been about 12 hours before.

The only clues the police had at first were the feverish replies of the little boy to their many questions, but he was incoherent in many cases.

"Joe Did It"

"Joe did it," the boy mumbled. "Mommy's hurt too."

But later he said "Mommy hurt us," and then "Joe bought us ice cream and then hurt."

"Where did you go after dinner today?" he was asked. "In the woods," he replied, struggling with his words.

Early today there had been reported missing no children answering the description of the little pair.

The shoes of both children had been removed, leading to the belief they were taken away to hide possible identification traces. Despite this apparent precaution, the fact the bodies were not wholly burned caused police to conjecture the slayer had left the scene in haste.

From the rambling replies of the little boy and bits of material evidence, police believed the children were brother and sister, "Helen" and "Jimmy." The boy when asked for his last name mumbled something indistinct.

A butcher knife and a pair of scissors, both bloodstained, and an unstained ax were found near the children it was disclosed. A bottle partly filled with gasoline also lay nearby.

Both children had blond hair and blue eyes and looked alike. Their clothing was of good quality, the girl's a pink dress, the boy's a sailor suit with black top and blue trousers. In the hospital had recovered sufficiently to tell us his name and the name of his mother and the address of the day nursery school on West 43rd street in New York city.

Mrs. Tiernan was taken into custody by Detective Frank Naughton of the New York police after an official of the nursery identified a picture of the little boy. Naughton said nursery officials told him Mrs. Tiernan had taken the children for an

Louisiana Law Imposing Tax on Chain Stores over Nation Upheld by Court

Washington, May 17 (AP)—The Supreme Court held constitutional today a 1934 Louisiana statute imposing a graduated license tax an chain stores based on the number of units operated throughout the nation and elsewhere.

A ruling by a three-judge federal district court at New Orleans sustaining the levy was affirmed. Justice Roberts delivered the 4 to 3 decision. Justices Sutherland, McReynolds and Butler dissented. Justices VanDevanter and Stone did not participate in the decision.

The Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company and 12 other corporations attacked the law which levied taxes ranging from $10 to $550 per store.

Because it had 15,084 establishments throughout the nation and in Canada, the A. and P. Company said it was taxed $550 for each of its 106 stores in Louisiana. It added that one of its competitors, H. G. Hill Stores, Inc., which operates 87 stores in New Orleans has to pay only $30 per store.

"Era of Chain Is Over"

The A. and P. contended that if the act were upheld "the era of the national chain is over" and "it may perhaps also be said that the era of national corporations and of firms or individuals doing business in more than one state is over." It asserted that sustaining the levy would "open the door to the application of a similar theory to franchise, income and other taxes."

Roberts asserted that "the policy Louisiana is free to adopt with respect to the business activities of her own citizens she may apply to the citizens of other states who conduct the same business within her borders, and this irrespective of whether the evils requiring regulation arise solely from operations in Louisiana or are in part the result of extra-state transactions."

"Not a Denial"

"It is not a denial of due process," he added, "to adjust such license taxes as are here involved to meet the local evil resulting from business practices and superior economic

E. Kingston School Meeting Thursday To Vote New Budget

Another session of verbal fireworks is in the offing for Thursday evening, May 20, when the taxpayers of the East Kingston school district meet to vote on a new budget to replace the one which they refused to accept at the annual meeting of May 4.

In the meantime, the aroused people have filed formal charges against Trustee Michael DeCicco, charging violations of the code of ethics becoming a school trustee. These charges were drawn by Attorney William A. Kaercher of the local firm of Flanagan & Kaercher, and the papers were served on the trustee on Saturday.

The charges contain three points on which the taxpayers hope to bring about the ousting of DeCicco. They claim that he failed to comply with the state education law in not calling a special meeting to elect a trustee to fill the vacancy caused by the removing to another locality of Maurice O'Bryan; that he received remuneration for the use of his truck in the work of grading the school grounds; and that he also used his truck for personal gain in the hauling of the fuel supply for the school.

DeCicco could not be reached for a statement, but it is quite probable that he will defend himself whenever the state educational department sets the date for a hearing. At the annual meeting of May 4, Trustee DeCicco said, "If the taxpayers have any charges against me, I would like to have them made through the proper authorities and I will stand ready to defend myself."

Now that the charges have been filed and DeCicco served with the papers, it remains for the educational department to call the interested parties to a hearing, which will probably take place in Albany.

The special meeting scheduled for Thursday was necessary because the people would not accept any budget at the annual meeting and thus no money was appropriated for the financing of the school for the coming year. What bearing this meeting may have on the determination to re-hire the two ousted teachers, James A. Lynch and Mary Quigley, is not known, as the action of the trustees is held legal by the district superintendent of schools and the contracts have been given to two other teachers. However, while the budget is the reason for the calling of the Thursday meeting, it is almost certain that more charges will be hurled back and forth across the floor as the irate people air their feelings on the subject of misconduct and unfair treatment.

Thieves Complete Work.

Buffalo, N. Y., May 17 (AP)—While the burglar alarm jingled and two patrolmen scurred around floor doors and windows, thieves calmly looted a downtown men's furnishing store. The thieves entered through a trap door in the roof. The alarm went off. The policemen tried all the doors and windows and found them in order. They decided it was a short circuit and the thieves got away while the policemen notified the owner.

Doubt Arises Gates Were Down As Fire Truck Neared Tracks; Excelsior Hose Demands Action

Volunteer Fire Company Pledges to "Carry Torch" Until Crossings are Eliminated at Highway and Railroad Junctions.

1ST TO RENEW FIGHT

Excelsior Hose First Group to Renew Active Campaign Pressing Crossing Elimination.

William B. Martin, foreman of Excelsior Hose Company, at a special meeting of Excelsior Hose Company members held Sunday afternoon opened anew the fight for the elimination of the dangerous grade crossings in the city of Kingston by presenting a resolution, which was unanimously adopted, calling for the elimination of all grade crossings on the West Shore Railroad in the city through the depression of the tracks.

"We owe it to the memory of the two boys who gave their lives Saturday while in the performnace of their duty and to the other members of the Kingston Fire Department who are faced with this same danger whenever responding to an alarm in the locality," said Mr. Martin.

"The one thing which is always in the mind of the driver of a fire truck as he approaches the West Shore crossings is whether the gates will go down. They roll pretty fast in answer to an alarm and the one thing which worries the men who ride the fire trucks is the danger which lurks at the crossings. We as firemen of the city owe it to the two boys who gave their lives and to the other members of the department to work for an elimination of this danger," continued Mr. Mratin.

Special Meeting

Following the death of Firemen Peter Carey and Preston DeWitt early Saturday, a special meeting of Excelsior Hose Company was called. At that meeting held Sunday afternoon the matter of eliminating the danger at all railroad crossings in the city was discussed. As volunteer firemen of the city the members of Excelsior Hose Company feel that they and their friends should get behind the movement for elimination of the grade crossings.

The method sponsored by the firemen is the dropping of the tracks and thus effecting an elimination not only of the Broadway crossing but also Smith avenue, Gage street and Flatbush avenue as well. This plan of elimination while expensive in the first instance, would eliminate all of the dangerous crossings in the city, and it was suggested that in the end would prove the least expensive.

"Through the united efforts of the firemen and their friends we hope something definite can be done. In the past one group has been for one plan and another group for another plan, but we hope that now all will get together and sponser a plan which will eliminate this constant danger to every citizen and in particular the men riding the fire trucks who are endeavoring to protect our property," said Foreman Martin.

Mental Hazard.

One of the greatest mental hazards to every driver of a cumbersome, heavy, fast moving fire truck as it approaches the Broadway crossing or other grade crossing is "I hope the gates won't come down," said Mr. Martin.

The adoption of a resolution calling for the elimination of the crossings at grade in the city by Excelsior Hose Co. is the first act of any organization or body in the city since the death of two of the city's firemen, and copies of the resolution will be forwarded to the common council and also sent to the public service commission. Aid of all other

Number of Plans Presented For Crossing Elimination

P. S. C. Silent on Status Of Elimination Plans

Public Service Commission officials declined to be quoted today concerning the plans for the elimination of the Broadway crossing of the West Shore railroad, according to representatives of the Associated Press who sought an interview.

It was pointed out the elimination was ordered in 1936 and plans were submitted, which the city rejected. The opinion of the reporters were that the commission thought it was up to the city to accept the plans or suggest better ones.

Public interest is being focused on the necessity for eliminating the Broadway railroad crossing by Saturday morning's tragedy which so far has cost the lives of two members of the local fire department, when a fire truck, returning from the Downs street creamery fire, was in collision with a West Shore passenger train. Whether public pressure for action will become sufficiently aroused to force favorable action remains to be seen. Last August the common council by a vote of 8 to 5, refused to adopt a resolution approving the elimination of all the crossings in the city and approving a plan for the elimination of the Broadway crossing. At the time the various plans for the elimination of the Broadway crossing were being discussed last year, there was little interest shown except by those whose properties or businesses would have been affected in the area between Dederick and Cedar streets.

Three citizens were killed at the same crossing in 1918, when an early morning northbound train crashed into a trolley car. Mayor Canfield made several unsuccessful attempts to have the crossing eliminated. After lying dormant since, the crossing elimination was revived again last year. Three plans were involved in last year's discussions and proceedings. One was the first plan submitted by the railroad company, known as Plan "A," another embodied the ideas of Mayor Heiselman, and was known as the city's plan, and the other was the second and improved railroad plan, known as Plan "B."

Plan "A" provided for the elimination of the crossing by depressing Broadway without taking any real estate. The mayor characterized this plan as a "monstrosity" and objected to it on the grounds that it was dangerous and inadequate, that the roadway and ramps were too narrow, and that a sidewalk was contemplated on only one side of the street, and that was too narrow for padestrian traffic.

The Public Service Commission then ordered the mayor to present a plan that would be satisfactory to the city. The mayor then prepared a plan, known as the city's plan, calling for a wider roadway, wider ramps, two sidewalks, and two new streets in insure a free flow of traffic in the central business section: One connecting Greenkill avenue with Cedar street, and the other connecting Railroad avenue with Cornell street. In order not to destroy the appearance of the commercial properties in the affected area, the mayor's plan called for taking 20 feet off the front of all properties on both sides of Broadway from Dederick street to Cedar street. The city's plan was objected to by the railroad company and Public Service Commission on the grounds that damages which were being asked by the affected property owners made the cost of the plan prohibitive.

However, as the result of submitting the city's plan, the railroad came back with a new plan, known as Plan "B," which contained practically all of the improvements demanded by the mayor, except that it contemplated taking all of the property on only the south side of Broadway in the affected area instead of 20 feet from both sides of Broadway. Plan "B" had the approval of the railroad company, the Public Service Commission, the State Highway Department and the mayor.

The crossing would have been eliminated at no cost to the city of Kingston, according to the following excerpt from Mayor Heiselman's letter to the Common Council of August 11, 1936, in which he said, "The entire cost, including real estate and damage, of any plan for the elimination which the commission approves, will be borne 50 per cent by the railroad company, 49 per cent by the state and one per cent by the county."

It was understood at the time that on the night preceding the council meeting at which the crossing elimination was voted down a meeting was held between the mayor and members of the common council. At that meeting a resolution was drawn which had the approval of a majority of the aldermen. However when the council met at 8 p. m. a sufficient number of aldermen voted to defeat the resolution.

The resolution which was defeated read as follows:

BE IT RESOLVED:

(1) That the City of Kingston believes that if the Broadway crossing is to be eliminated, all of the crossings should be eliminated at the same time by depressing the railroad tracks, and thus eliminating all of the grade crossings of the West Shore Railroad in said city.

(2) That if this is impossible because of the order of the Commission and the order of the Supreme Court of the State of New York, heretofore referred to, and the Broadway crossing must be eliminated, then the City of Kingston heartily approves and would prefer the plan prepared by the City of

Hindenburg Rigger Suggests Gas Cell As Disaster Cause

Lakehurst, N. J., May 17 (AP).—One of the Hindenburg's riggers, who was on duty close to the spot where the destructive flames first burst forth from her stern, gave the department of commerce investigating board today his opinion that a gas cell started the disaster.

Hans Freund, the only one of the dirigible's three riggers to survive, was the first witness who was able to give any account of what took place in the stern when the explosion occurred.

His story emphasized the speed and lack of warning which characterized the destruction of the Nazi dirigible.

He had reached a station near the fins, he related, and was attempting to pay out a manila landing cable when it happened.

"There was a muffled detonation and I was standing in fire," he related. "It went so quickly."

"How far were from from the source of the fire?" he was asked.

"I was surrounded by fire," he answered. "It came, of course, from above.

"I had the impression it was a gas cell," he added after saying he could not tell whether the flames enveloping him came from the forward or after direction.

All Happened At Once

The flames and explosion were simultaneous, he said. "From, that moment I don't remember anything until I got out of the fin."

Before that there was nothing wrong and landing preparations had proceeded in a normal manner, he said. The cable he was lowering had become temporarily fouled by the tail surfaces but that was not unusual and another member of the crew quickly got the cable clear.

He felt no shock as he started to drop the cable, he told the board, and he noticed no glow of static electricity about it.

About 45 feet forward of the tail cable, Freund said, he had previously dropped a spider line—a steel line with many smaller manila ropes attached to it for the ground crew. There was no static glow here, he said, and he felt no shock from the line.

Freund said he was one of the three men who inspected the dirigible's gas cells, but the other two perished in the disaster. He could not supply information on the gas level of the last cell in the stern at Fireman Richard Smith, Uninjured in Early Saturday Morning Crash, Denies Emphatically He Ever Said Gates Were Down.

CORONER'S PROBE

Fireman Ferrill F. Finkle Still in Critical Condition and Delirious Commissioners Meet Tonight.

With the police and fire department of the city making a rigid investigation of the tragedy in which two firemen have so far lost their lives while a third fireman lies in a critical condition in the Kingston Hospital following the crash of one of the city's fire trucks into a passenger train on the Broadway crossing of the West Shore railroad about 2:25 o'clock Saturday morning, the following points have been developed:

That the investigation so far discloses that there is a grave question as to whether the crossing gates were lowered and in position at the time of the tragedy.

Fireman Richard Smith of 109 Abeel street, the only one of the four firemen to escape death or serious injury, denied emphatically today when questioned about the tragedy that he had ever made the statement that the crossing gates were down as the fire truck approached the crossing.

That undoubtedly a coroner's inquest would be held later, the date will likely not be fixed until the police and fire departments have been given an opportunity of completing the investigation now under way.

Did Not Make Statement

Fireman Smith was emphatic this morning when he stated that he had never made a statement to any reporter or to any one that the crossing gates were down and that the truck crashed through the lowered gates.

Finkle's Condition Critical.

At the Kingston Hospital it was stated that Fireman Ferrill F. Finkle of 117 Abbey street, was still in a critical condition. He has been delirious the greater part of the time since being taken to the hospital and it is said that it has been impossible to obtain a coherent statement from him as to his version of the tragedy. He has not been informed of the death of his fellow firemen.

Fire Chief Murphy when seen this morning stated that he had talked with Finkle and that the fireman's mind was a blank in regard to the few minutes preceding the fatal crash.

Nothing to Tell.

Chief of Police J. Allan Wood when seen today stated that he was not in a position to make any statement for publication. He did say that the investigation he had launched Saturday was still underway. Just what the investigation had developed he was not ready to state. The police department was using every effort to complete its investigation as quickly as possible.

Fire Board to Meet.

The board of fire commissioners will meet this evening at the Central Fire Station. One of the matters to be taken up at the meeting will be the temporary appointment of three firemen.

The local civil service board has supplied the fire board with an eligible list from which these three temporary appointments can be made.

Fire Chief Murphy said that the fire truck involved in the accident was so badly damaged that it was a question of whether it would be wiser to replace it with a new truck rather than have the truck repaired.

This question will also likely be considered at the fire board.

Funeral Arranged

The funerals of Firemen Peter A. Carey and Preston DeWitt will be held on Tuesday, Carey's in the morning and DeWitt's in the afternoon. Fireman Carey's funeral will be held from the late home, 60 Clinton avenue, on Tuesday morning at 9:30 o'clock and thence to St. Joseph's Church where at 10 o'clock a solemn requiem Mass will be offered. Burial will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

The funeral of Fireman DeWitt will be held from the home of his father-in-law, Charles Petri, 172 Flatbush avenue, on Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock with burial in Wiltwyck cemetery. Besides his wife and son, Fireman DeWitt is survived by his mother, Mrs. Lura DeWitt; two brothers, James of Kingston and Earl DeWitt of Marlborough, and a sister, Miss Beatrice DeWitt of New York city.

Officials to Attend

Mayor Heiselman and other city officials, Fire Chief Murphy, Deputy Fire Chief Leverich and a delegation of paid and volunteer firemen are expected to attend both funeral services. It is expected that Fire Chief Noll and a delegation of Poughkeepsie firemen will attend the services and also a delegation of Newburgh firemen. Fireman Carey will be

U. A. W. Guards Closely Strategy To Be Used In Unionizing Ford Motor Company Employes

Detroit, May 17 (AP).—The United Automobile Workers of America guarded closely today details of its strategy for this week's drive to unionize Ford Motor Co. employes but indicated all its resources were being mobilized to make the launching create "something of a splash."

The union will signal its formal campaign against Ford by opening later in the week two membership offices in Dearborn, suburban Detroit home of Ford Motor Co.

"We don't expect any resistance," said Homer Martin, president of U. A. W. A.

"We will use every method we know to encourage Ford workers to join our union", said Wyndham Mortimer, union first vice president.

The week opened with Ford making the first move, distribution to its workers of cards bearing "Fordisms" stating the management's views about labor.

The first statement on the cards said "A monopoly of jobs in this country is just as bad as a monopoly of bread."

This was interpreted by observers as a reiteration of Ford's declaration of independence from financiers and labor leaders alike, of his expressed contention that organizers of money or workmen move in the same direction, although on different planes, toward remote control monopoly and obliteration of individual significance.

Martin dismissed the "Fordisms" as "soft words' which would have no effect on the drive. Martin said:

"Mr. Ford's gestures of paternalism toward his employes at this late date resembles too closely the hypocritical overtures of the mustachioed villian to the heroine in the old fashioned melodrama to convince either the public or the employes.

"For years he has subjected his workers to low wages, the unbearable speedup and the most vicious spy system in the industry.

"Apparently he is now trying desperately to make up for these injustices with soft words. He will find it won't work. Neither Mr. Ford nor his 'isms' will make any impression on his workers."

Interviewed last night in Kansas City, where he addressed a meeting of workers, Martin said an increase of Ford wages would not stop the union campaign. He contended only "the presence and power of the union" could better conditions.

Asked whether the union feared Ford plants might be closed to balk unionization, Martin replied: "I think Ford wants to make automobiles and we want him to make automobiles."

Martin contended "the idea of high wages and good working conditions in the Ford Motor Co. is a myth."

General Motors and Chrysler Corporation, Martin said, "have always paid higher wages and had better working conditions."

Martin said the main Ford plant at River Rouge, Mich., already has "more than 10,000 members" and will be granted a charter this week.

British Press Drags Affair Windsor Out for Public Exhibit

London, May 17 (AP)—The British press today brought out into the open the controversy over a royal recognition of Mrs. Wallis Warfield by a controversy of its own over possibility of formal announcement of her engagement to the Duke of Windsor by King George VI himself.

While the Sunday Referee reported the king was ready to extend the royal family's sanction of the match by announcing the betrothal of his brother and the woman for whom Edward gave up his throne, the Express said such a move was impossible.

"Ecclesiastical objections" to Mrs Warfield as a twice-divorced person, the Express said, prevented the king from taking any such action

The Sunday referee predicted King George would announce his brother's engagement this week

"It will be the royal family's first public recognition of the duke's association with Mrs. Warfield," the Referee declared

Even the Sunday Referee, however, did not fill out the style with which Mrs Warfield would be designated, a question vexing court circles almost as much as the romance which brought about Edward's abdication and paved the way for George's coronation last Wednesday.

The king alone, court circles agreed, must determine whether or not Mrs Warfield will become merely Duchess of Windsor or will take precedence as "Her Royal Highness, the Duchess of Windsor."

Edward, feeling such a style was due his bride, was reported to have insisted that his younger brother make it clear she would take her husband's rank and be "H. R. H."

Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin, backed by the church and some court circles, was generally considered to be leading the opposition to conferring royal status on the woman for whose love Edward stepped down off the empire's throne

In the meantime, Mrs. Warfield's assumption of that name for the ceremony with Windsor was made completely legal through publication of the deed poll, by which she dropped her divorced husband's name of Simpson.

Announcement of the wedding date and list of wedding guests was expected tomorrow afternoon at the Chateau de Cande where the couple are guests.

The statement, a spokesman there said, would clear up, as well, the controversy between the royal family and the government over the question of whether the wedding be public or private and the future status of Mrs. Warfield.

Rain at Monts

Monts, France, May 17 (AP)—Heavy rain kept the Duke of Windsor and Mrs. Wallis Warfield indoors at their chateau retreat today, and the ex-king cancelled a scheduled golf game.

Their wedding date remained a mystery, but it was expected to be solved tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. (8.30 a. m., E. S. T.).

Old Settlers Remember How Two Men Won Strike

Rapid City, S. D.—An outmoded street car, exhibited in a park here calls to mind among old settlers one of the most unusual strikes in the state's history. The old street car company here owned one car, a horse drawn vehicle. It was operated by two men. They formed a union. The management objected. And so the men struck. They demanded union recognition and no reduction in salary. Their salary was 75 cents a day. The strikers were victorious.

India's deaths totaled 6,900,000 last year, of which 4,000,000 resulted from fevers, 300,000 from dysentery and 80,000 from plague. Snake-bite accounted for 22,000 and 13,000 committed suicide.

Annual earnings per railway employe in 1936 averaged $1,734 compared with $1,653 in 1935.

THAT'S pretty hard to explain, my boy . . .

Let's see . . . why are Americans different?

Well—maybe it's their love for freedom. Freedom—and the courage to hold on to it at any cost.

That means freedom from worry, too—and from uncertainty. Another word for this is security.

For example—only seven out of every hundred people in the world are Americans . . . yet they own more life insurance than all the rest of the world put together!

Sixty-four million of them are building up security for themselves and their loved ones, step by step, the American way—through life insurance!

Americans are self-reliant people, you see. They don't believe in trusting their future to luck. Not when it's so easy to achieve peace of mind and freedom from uncertainty—through life insurance.

Perhaps that is why Americans are different. Perhaps that is why America is the grandest spot on the globe—a great nation—a better nation. Its people dwell in security!

★ MONEY AT WORK—FOR AMERICA ★

Through life insurance, more than 64,000,000 policyholders have saved BILLIONS of hard-working American dollars.

Their money has helped a growing nation to buy homes, farms, and places of business. The 5 BILLIONS now in mortgage loans is enough to build 20 cities, each with 33,000 homes.

Their money has helped to finance public improvements. The 5¼ BILLIONS now in public bonds is enough to build schools for 8,000,000 children.

Their money has helped create our national railway system. The 3 BILLIONS now in railroad securities is enough to put 10 streamlined trains on every 1,000 miles of track.

Other billions have helped provide cheaper light, heat, and power; cash for emergencies.

Busy dollars these, and safe dollars. Symbols of true American thrift!

Bond Appears Honest.

Newport News, Va.—"What's your occupation?" Deck Sergeant R. W. Hamilton asked the man brought to police headquarters.

"Stealing," was the reply.

"No, not what you are charged with," said the officer, "but what is your occupation?"

"That's right, stealing," the man insisted. "I steal coal from the Chesapeake & Ohio yards. I hope the judge gives me 30 days in jail."

Hamilton booked him as Fred Bond, 35, and set a hearing on a larceny charge.

A Fall into Heaven.

Calacasas, Calif.—Jiggs, nine-year-old cow pony, fell 450 feet into a dead-end canyon and din't break a bone.

But he did get a swell break. There was no trails out of the canyon and attempts of his owner, W. C. DuBrock, to reach Jiggs with block and tackle failed. So Jiggs remains there the rest of his days, browsing on the grassy slopes and drinking from a fresh spring.

Add Coronation News.

Kansas City—The milkman was making a delivery coronation day morning and Lottie, the negro maid, was listening to the kitchen radio from which flowed accounts of the London ceremonies.

Other servants were talking, washing dishes and the static interfering with the reception to such an extent the milkman asked if she could hear what was going on.

"I can't understand a word," was the reply, "but the king sure is gettin' himself married. Ain't it thrilling?"

Williston, N. D.—North Dakota jack rabbits may stock private hunting grounds in the east!

Bertrand H. Small of Boston wrote the local postmaster after reading of Williston rabbit drives whereby farmers rid their fields of pests and add to their income by sale of pelts.

Small suggested the bunnies be trapped alive and sold to private clubs for hunting purposes. Postmaster George Harvey replied he would investigate such possibilities of another source for "Jack for Jacks."

GROSS NEGLIGENCE

It has been announced that a thorough investigation is underway to place as far as possible the responsibility for the tragic deaths of two of our firemen and the serious injury to another at the Broadway crossing. This is the proper procedure, but there is a broader responsibility resting on those who have blocked the elimination of the crossing or failed to take action as would lead to its abolition. That responsibility may be attempted to be shifted but it cannot be shaken off easily.

For many years the dangerous character of the crossing has been discussed and everywhere admitted. The matter of its elimination has been the theme of many a speech and much newsprint has been used in writing about it. But in spite of all this the crossing has remained a menace and will continue to be so unless something is done. There have been plans, exhibits, schemes, etc., but that activity has been succeeded by inactivity and the crossing is there to endanger and harass the residents, visitors and tourists in the city.

It must be admitted there has been gross negligence for many years in neglecting to take necessary steps to remedy this constant threat to human life and limb at the crossing, but past negligence is no excuse for continuing negligence. The Broadway crossing should be eliminated and the sooner it is started the safer the main thoroughfare of the City of Kingston will be.

GAS FOR THE ZEPS

Apparently Germany is going right ahead with dirigibles. The Zeppelin already under construction is being rushed to completion more rapidly since the Hindenburg disaster. The Germans still believe in such craft, and are proud of their supremacy in that branch of aeronautics. They want more Zeppelins for the peaceful carrying trade, in passengers and freight, already well established between the Reich and South America. They want particularly to establish a permanent airship service between Berlin and New York. And perhaps they want also to develop a fleet of Zeppelin which, though used normally for peace traffic, would be more serviceable in case of war than were the more primitive Zeppelins of the last war, which blew up, burned up, were destroyed by storms or shot down in the World War.

Here is the difficult point when it comes to selling Germany helium for such ships. Apparently the United States has a larger supply of this gas than the public has realized, in Texas, Colorado and elsewhere, and the process of extracting it from the natural gas is being improved. Known supplies, some authorities say, would suffice to operate about 100 airships like the Hindenburg for more than 100 years. Other supplies will probably be found in this country and elsewhere. Russia apparently has a considerable supply. And means may be devised for producing the gas chemically.

Americans don't want to play dog in the manger. But Americans certainly don't want to supply Germany or any other possible foreign enemy with helium that might be used in warfare. So any helium sold for foreign use will have to be limited in quantity and safeguarded as fully as possible against military use.

PRACTICAL SCANDINAVIANS

While war in Spain, a coronation in England, and the peculiar oratorical outbursts of the European dictators have been holding the center of attention, there was a Scandinavian conference at Helsingfors which almost escaped American notice. Ministers of the Swedish, Norwegian, Danish and Finnish governments met to talk over mutual problems and map out possibilities of cooperation. Here are some of the policies discussed.

The Scandinavian countries are agreed on neutrality. They intend to stay out of European wars. They are agreed on the possible usefulness of the League of Nations. They want to see it strengthened. They favor collaboration of small nations to control the arms industries and sales of arms to bigger nations. They propose to protest seizure of their ships along the Spanish coast.

The conference is held to have marked a new milestone in the political cooperation of the North European nations. Said the Swedish minister, "These conferences, begun as an improvisation, now have become an institution." The next one will meet in Stockholm in the autumn. These four nations get together not to arrange military treaties or plan military defenses, but to tackle problems affecting them all and to work out practical solutions. Other European nations can do this, to their own economic good and military safety, any time they want to.

KING AND BUS MEN

Everybody except Mussolini seems inclined to admit that there's something about the British. Take that coronation honors list. Among all the celebrities, nobility, authors, artists and royal persons, there were certain humbler folk.

Two of London's striking bus men received medals of the Order of the British Empire. One of them had never had an accident in 29 years of driving busses on the streets of London. The other had made a name for himself because of his good nature. His fellow bus men describe him as "the best tempered conductor in the service." Honors for two strikers didn't call off the strike. But neither did the inconvenient strike call off the honors.

EMPTYING TIME OF STOMACH

When a barium meal is given by which the X-ray (fluoroscope) can watch the length of time taken for this white material(which makes the black shadow) to pass through stomach and intestines, the X-ray report will say, "Stomach empty in six hours—normal." This might mean then that if a stomach emptied in four hours or eight hours it would not be considered normal.

As a matter of fact, the length of time it takes the stomach to empty itself depends upon the "build" of the patient. In a stocky, stout, strong type of person the emptying time of the stomach is about four to five hours, whereas the emptying time of the stomach in the long, thin, less rugged individual is about 6½ hours. Thus if in the long thin individual the stomach emptied in about 4½ hours, and in the short, stout, strong individual it took 6½ hours then neither of them is "normal."

Some years ago Dr. R. W. Mills in the American Journal of Roentgenology (X-ray journal) showed that there were six general types of body from the very short, stout and strong to the very long, thin, and weak, but for general use we now have just the three classes.

1. Wide, long body, short legs—bull-dog type.
2. Narrow, short body, long legs.
3. An intermediate type—somewhere between types 1 and 2.

In the wide or bulldog type the stomach is up high, well above the navel, is the shape of a steer's horn, with large end up receiving food from the tube running down from the mouth, so that it can easily empty itself — straight diagonal downhill trip for the food as the stomach gradually pushes it out into small intestine. The stomach movements are also faster and stronger than in the long, thin type, as there seems to be more tone or elasticity to the muscular walls of the stomach.

In the long, thin type, the stomach is low, maybe as low as the hip bones when the individual is standing. In addition to having to push the food upward to empty it into small intestine, the muscular power in this type is not as good and the emptying time is thus about half as long again as in the wide type.

The intermediate type is really the ideal type. The stomach is neither high up nor low down and the emptying time of stomach is between 5 and 6 hours.

MURDER ON THE BLUFF

By Fulton Oursler

SYNOPSIS: First it is the mysterious shooting to death of attractive Jude Blinshop which makes us all jittery on this wild, stormy weekend at Farrington Bluff, home of Michael's aunts. Then a series of strange attacks occurs. Present are: Mike; the Skipper, his tall, tweedy younger aunt; Aunt Martha, stout and prudish; Gay Palmer, Mike's red-headed sweetheart; myself and the four servants. It is a relief to find the body of Michael's insane father, supposedly long since dead, below the bluff; it explains so much that has happened.

Chapter 27

'The Danger's Not Over'

"WHAT'S the matter, Higgins?" He was still white.

"I'd like to talk to you a minute, sir. Somewhere where we can't be heard."

I stared at him. "What about? There's no one to hear us, Higgins. What's on your mind?"

"Would you come into the living room, sir?"

Reflecting that the poor old boy probably wanted to relieve his mind by telling me his version of the story, I followed him into the living room.

"Well, what is it, Higgins?"

"Mr. Jimmie, the Farringtons have always been almost like my own family, as you might say. The old gentleman was very good to me when I was just a boy, sir, and alone in this country, if you see what I mean."

I smiled at him reassuringly. "I see what you mean. They've been pretty swell to me, too." What the deuce ailed him? If he trusted me enough to tell me the story, why all the preliminaries?

"This affair has been most unfortunate, sir."

My patience was getting a bit thin. I had many things to say to Michael, and I wanted to say them before he had soaked himself into a complete stupor. I frowned.

I said sharply, "What's on your mind?"

"Mr. Jimmie," he stepped closer to me and spoke in a hoarse whisper, "the danger's not over. There's—"

He stopped suddenly, and an amazing thing happened. His eyes, fixed on the window behind me, seemed about to pop from his head and under my very nose the man seemed to shrivel up. I wheeled toward that window. There was no one there, and my patience snapped.

"Higgins, what the devil are you looking at? What are you talking about?"

He passed a trembling hand over his eyes. "I—I don't know. Possibly, sir, I—I have been imagining things. Please forget it, sir." With a certain dignity he straightened himself.

Exasperated beyond all endurance, I fairly roared at him to speak his piece.

"Nothing, sir. I have been forgetting myself. Please excuse me."

I made a wild lunge, but he got to the door before I did. Crossing to the window, I leaned against it, staring out at the dismal lawn, my brain in an uproar.

Footprint On The Tile

"THE danger's not over!" What did that remark have to do with the depressing secret of Farrington Bluff? What—? My eyes had fallen to the tiling on the porch floor just outside the window. There, clearly defined in rapidly hardening mud, was the imprint of a rubber boot. Higgins had seen someone at that window—someone who might or might not have heard what he was starting to say! The wild thought crossed my mind that maybe he was right—that there was more trouble to come, but I rejected it impatiently. What a hair-trigger state we had all gotten into! I went off in search of Michael.

He was not in his room. A disorderly confusion of clothes, books and papers gave mute testimony to his state of mind, and a nearly empty decanter of brandy told me that the Skipper's fears for him were justified. I thought first of the bootprint outside the living room window and then of Norman Farrington lying halfway down the bluff. Farrington Bluff was no place for a drunken man—particularly a drunken man in Michael's frame of mind.

In a vain hope of finding him, I rushed through the bathroom into my own room. He wasn't there. And I was reasonably certain that he wasn't downstairs. There were only two possibilities. Either he must be in talking to the Skipper or he must be outside. I rushed into the hall and raced with all my might to the Skipper's door. Without waiting to knock, I flung it open. The Skipper's oilskins lay on the bed and her boots on the floor beside them, but there was no one in the room. I had barely time to realize that fact, when a deafening report of a gun shook the entire house.

For a second I was too petrified to move. The sound had seemed to come from the direction of the next room—M. Farrington's. I dove through the joining bathroom and pulled up with a bang.

M. Farrington lay face downward on the floor beside the dressing table, one arm thrown out at her side. As I dazedly knelt to turn her over, the hall door flew open to disclose Michael, his eyes red and bleary, blinking at me in amazement. We stared at each other.

"She's hurt. Get some water!" I managed finally through stiff lips.

He hesitated, and I sensed more distrust in that pause than I could see on his incredulous face. His eyes fell and he moved unsteadily toward the bathroom. I wrenched my attention from my own appalling predicament to the old lady.

She was alive. A bullet had torn through her left shoulder. Mechanically I noted that she had been shot from the rear at close range. There were powder marks on the back of her lavender robe, and the profuse bleeding in front seemed to indicate that the bullet had torn straight through. So Higgins had been right! We were still in danger!

Clumsily Mike deposited a basin of water beside me. He seemed hypnotized, incapable of speech. And I was glad of it.

"Find the Skipper!" I said hoarsely, starting to bathe the wound with my handkerchief. "Hurry, Mike! Her heart's bad and—"

The Skipper was there beside me before he could seem to move. Her face was grim and set.

"Give me that, Jim," she said sternly, kneeling beside me. "There's a first-aid kit in the bathroom. Get it, please."

Higgins At The Keyhole

I GOT up with difficulty. I couldn't seem to get my mind away from the fact that I would be suspected of this shooting. It took me at least three minutes to find the first-aid kit in the cabinet over the basin. While I was fumbling around in the process, I could hear Gay's high excited voice. The thing must have been heard all over the house in another minute the servants would be tumbling in on us. Vaguely I wondered as I crossed the few steps to the Skipper's side, what had kept them off so long.

Mike and I were of about as much use as an oil burner in the Sahara. But the Skipper worked quickly and carefully. Between us, we lifted M. Farrington to the bed and stood waiting while the Skipper applied restoratives. Slowly, in a series of unpleasant groans, the old lady came out of it and was immediately acutely ill. I made for the door as fast as I could go, only to bump smack into Higgins, straightening himself from an obvious keyhole attitude in the hall.

"What has happened, sir?" he said without a trace of embarrassment.

I closed the door behind me with a jerk. "What are you doing, Higgins?" I countered.

"Miss Barbara was giving me some instructions in the lower hall. We heard what sounded like a shot and hurried up here. I stayed in the hall at her request to keep the servants out of the way, sir."

"Very pat, Higgins." Glaring at him, I noticed suddenly that he was holding something in his hand—something wrapped up in a handkerchief. And he saw my look.

"I found this on the stand here just now. I thought perhaps you had better take care of it until the police arrive."

Deliberately he unwrapped from the handkerchief his own revolver, to my knowledge the only one on the Bluff. I reached for it involuntarily, and to this day I don't know what stopped me. Perhaps it was the sudden realization that even as he offered it to me, Higgins was carefully avoiding direct contact with the gun. I managed to take it, handkerchief and all, without touching the metal. Furiously I hurled questions at him. No results that meant anything.

Cook was in the kitchen. He was sure of it because she had been there when he answered Miss Barbara's ring and both William and Annie were certain that she had not come up the back stairs. They had just left him. They claimed to have been in their rooms when they heard the shot, and he believed that they were because they had not been in the kitchen when the Skipper rang. They appeared immediately after the shot was heard. It was all very upsetting, just when we had been sure that the trouble was all over. He would very much like to know what had happened.

"Someone shot and painfully wounded Miss Farrington," I said bluntly.

He staggered back against the wall. "Painfully wounded," he repeated in a thin whisper. "Painfully—"

A thought was dawning in my head. "Merely a flesh wound," I said deliberately, with my eyes on his face. "She's quite conscious and there's no danger."

It didn't work. His eyes were on the floor, his face expressionless.

WOODSTOCK.

Woodstock, May 17.—Miss Edith Macomb has returned to Woodstock from her home in Providence, R. I. She is the guest of Miss Alice Wardwell for a short time before opening her studio here.

Mrs. Doris Flemming has returned from a winter in California and has opened her home on Ohayo Mountain for the summer.

Mrs. Elizabeth Hall has returned from an extensive trip through several South American countries.

The Country Club swimming pool is being dredged and the tennis courts prepared for the summer season.

Mrs. Madeline Mundy has opened a restaurant at "Woodbine," her home of Neher street.

The moving pictures shown on Friday evening in the Reformed Church basement were much enjoyed by many children and adults, although the projector broke down before the main feature, "The Beneficent Reprobate." In spite of this refreshments were delicious and the evening was a jolly one.

People are tough. Plenty of them get smashed up in auto accidents, but that's nothing to what happens to the cars.

Shortage of farm labor in Delhi county has proved a boon to students of the Delhi State School of Agriculture, H. L. Smith, director of the school, says. "The demand for workers exceeds the supply," Smith said. "Members of the senior class, recently graduated, have been uniformly successful in securing permanent employment."

Man About Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—This is the sort of day on which nobody with a grain of intelligence would willingly go out (except Garbo, who likes to walk in the rain), so let's go through the mail basket and then close up shop.

Here is a note from the president of the Museum of the City of New York. . . . There's going to be a private glimpse of something special in the way of exhibits—an exhibition of "Dining in Old New York." It ought to be very rococo and very gay, too—wining in the mauve decade, when the gentlemen wore inverness capes and the ladies were wasp-waisted and had their tresses piled on their heads in the Gibson-girl manner.

ON FRIDAY there's to be a dinner ("black tie") at Maria De Kammerer's apartment, on 61st street, near Central Park. . . . I'm to meet Bob Reud at the St. Moritz, the note says, and go thither with him. . . . Guthrie McClintic postcards from Ireland that the song writers are all wrong. . . . It's even fairer and greener, and the colleens are prettier, much prettier, than the song writers say.

"In your wanderings in New York," writes Bill Depperman, "keep an eye out for those 'Mutiny on the Bounty' murals which are somewhere down in the Village. They aren't patterned after the book by Nordhoff and Hall—they were painted by Thomas Hunt nearly 10 years ago." . . . The Bounty murals, a wild, panoramic sweep of island palms, half-nude dancing girls, and motley, uncouth sailors, are at the Greenwich Village Casino, a nightclub at No. 5 Sheridan Square. . . . There's an earthy quality of abandon that makes them just a wee bit startling—especially if you've read the Bounty trilogy.

INQUIRES Isabel Manning Hewson: "What's in a name? General Pershing is a flower; Queen Mary is a boat; Vincent Lopez is a wrestler; Phil Baker is a pugilist; Wm. Shakespeare is a Notre Dame football player; and George Tucker is the name of a doll dress couturier at a toy fair in New York!" . . . Gracious goodness!

"A fine way to become famous"—this is from John Nesbitt—"is to get yourself a job as secretary to somebody who is. For instance, Richard Himber once served as secretary to Rudy Vallee; Kay Francis, the movie star, was secretary to Mrs. Dwight Morrow; Charles Butterworth served in a secretarial capacity to J. P. McAvoy; Ricardo Cortez was the late Barbara LaMarr's secretary, and Lucille Manners was secretary to the great legal authority, John Leonard."

But, I don't know shorthand!

Christopher's Suggestion

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

"IN FLYING around," Christopher said, "I have often seen an automobile going along with a much larger automobile behind and I've noticed people use these for camping."

"A trailer!" exclaimed Willy Nilly, who felt better at once at the thought they could all go away.

"You see," he explained to the doctor, "my crow has suggested that we take a trip with a trailer. It's a good idea because I have an automobile Two-Ways, as you know, and I could get a trailer from the next town where I'm sure they have one or two. I wonder, Doctor, if you'd mind asking them to bring it over before the end of the week? I can pay for it as soon as I can go to the bank."

"That would be a splendid trip," the doctor replied. "You'd have a complete change. I think it would be great for you."

"In fact," said Willy Nilly, "if you'll be so good, I'll give you a note to the bank and you can get the money out for me. They know you, there, and then you must let me pay for this visit."

"One more thing," barked Rip. "You know the circus people left money for us to repair the stairs in the Empty House. Couldn't the doctor ask a carpenter to come over and do that for us? You don't want to have to come home after the trip to find a lot of chores undone."

"Now what is he saying?" asked the doctor, who was very much amused by Willy Nilly's friends.

When he heard, he considered Rip a very bright dog to have thought of such a thing. And then the doctor left.

All the Puddle Muddlers could talk of was the trip they were soon to take.

Tomorrow—"Plans"

Failure of trees newly set in the orchard to get off to an early and vigorous start in the spring has presented a problem to nurserymen and fruit growers which is still puzzling, but upon which some progress is being made, say horticulturists at the State Experiment Station at Geneva. Frequently the nursery company is blamed for slow starting and poor growth in the spring, yet records indicate that very often the fruit grower himself is at fault. If the bundles are not promptly opened upon receipt, if the trees are allowed to dry out by exposure of the roots to sun and wind, or if the plants are allowed to heat in the package, the effect upon the young tree may be serious.

A Washington Daybook

By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON — The British admiralty quickly came to the relief of the American naval building program, as well as its own, after the report that an airplane bomb had sunk the battleship Espana. There has been a lot of talk about what airplanes can do to warships, and this demonstration was a hair raiser.

Freighter Saves Day

BUT along came the British admiralty. Barely had the sea claimed the Espana—an old tub that you could split open with a pocket knife—than the admiralty published the report of a freighter captain who said he saw the planes but didn't see them bomb the warship. It must have been a mine that took the Espana down, he said. Sure enough, said the admiralty, and went ahead with its ship building.

As a matter of fact, some of the smarter arm-chair fighting men in these parts think the air forces haven't demonstrated so much killing power in Spain as might have been expected. On the other hand the rebel naval blockade has been extremely punishing. But let's not fight that out here. Many a good fighting man will go to his grave before that issue finally is determined.

Behind The Bench

COURT SCENE: Justice Brandeis, while listening to arguments on the validity of a Georgia tobacco warehousing tax, pressed an attorney to explain why warehousing should be considered in interstate commerce when growing the tobacco was considered not so. (The Supreme Court held in the AAA case that agriculture was strictly a local industry.) The attorney squirmed. He wouldn't say that agriculture was not in interstate commerce, but he insisted that problem was not involved in the Georgia case. Brandeis kept insisting until Justice McReynolds cut in, acid as a horseradish:

"Why don't you answer him yes or no and be done with it."

The attorney blinked. Brandeis grinned, stopped his questioning, whispered a remark in Justice Butler's ear and they both chuckled. Probably Brandeis said:

"Do you know, I don't think that fellow McReynolds likes me so well." Which is undoubtedly true enough.

Japan seems to be upset by the naval building programs of Great Britain and the United States. The former is preparing to spend $2,750,000,000 for new naval construction in the next five years; and the latter, with a naval appropriation of $513,000,000 for the next fiscal year, is going to start work on two $50,000,000 warships and many smaller craft. Japan, with the largest naval appropriations in her history, has only $250,000,000 for the next year and doesn't know anw way to raise more. She is already on the edge of bankruptcy with her lavish military and naval expenditures.

The soft wool blankets that were so comfortable to snuggle under during the winter are being tossed over by one over the footboard of the bed. One or two will be kept around for emergencies, but you'll want most of them out of sight and out of mind for the next few months. Make sure your wool blankets are immaculate before putting them away or you'll run the risk of having them ruined by moths. They represent a considerable investment and it pays to give them the best possible care.

'Sissy' Logs Rolled Like Old-Time Giants

TRAFFIC JAM
New England still prefers the water route for getting its logs to the mill.

Berlin, N. H. (AP)—It's log rolling time on the Androscoggin river and although much of the romance is gone, practically the same system is used as 100 years ago. The main change is in the size of the logs—four feet long now compared to the 16 and 30 of the old days which necessitated guidance by nimble log rollers.

With the spring freshets, a crew of 1,000 men starts the logs off from vantage points where they were hauled after cutting last fall and winter. Within a few weeks 225,000 cords will be piled up in mill yards.

Dams at varying distances hold back the water in the larger brooks until the logs are thrown in. Then they are opened and the rush carries the wood down stream for a considerable distance. The process is repeated until the logs reach the main river, where they continue their trip with little supervision except at the larger dams

At the mill yards the logs are piled in large groups by a conveyor, to await their turn to be moved into the mill. Some piles contain as many as 100,000 cords and are often worth more than $1,000,000.

The loggers live in camps and receive a minimum of $2 a day and board.

Poison Ivy Control

Geneva, N. Y., May 17.—Grubbing out the weed as it appears or using various chemicals, particularly common salt, are suggested as the best means of eradicating poison ivy by Prof G P Van Eseltine, botanist at the State Experiment Station here. Directions for eradicating the plant and remedies for ivy poisoning are contained in a circular published by the Experiment Station and now available upon request.

Young Republicans Drive Toward 1938

Syracuse, N. Y., May 17 (AP).—New York state Young Republicans squared away today for a party drive to control the 1938 state constitutional convention after ending their two-day convention here in harmony.

State Chairman William S. Murray warned that control of the forthcoming convention is vital to future success and appealed for a campaign to elect a majority of convention delegations.

His appearance topped off a state association meeting which saw resolutions demanding his resignation along with those of Charles D. Hilles and Mrs. Ruth Baker Pratt, national committeemen, buried in committees.

Their resignations were "demanded" in an original platform plank holding them responsible for the Republican party being the minority party in the state. However, peacemakers went to work with the platform committee headed by Ralph E. Becker and the controversial plank was missing when the platform was reported on the floor.

Critics of the state leadership won a compromise nevertheless when the resolution committee agreed not to report a resolution endorsing Murray that had been adopted unanimously.

Sponge rubber brushes and mops do double household duty. Use them dry and they make efficient dusters for walls, woodwork, and furniture. Lather them with soap and they do a good job of routin gthe soil that can't be whisked away.

Don't Sleep When Gas Presses Heart

If you want to really GET RID OF GAS and terrible bloating, don't expect to do it by just doctoring your stomach with harsh, irritating alkalies and "gas tablets." Most GAS is lodged in the stomach and upper intestine and is due to old poisonous matter in the constipated bowels that are loaded with ill-causing bacteria.

If your constipation is of long standing, enormous quantities of dangerous bacteria accumulate. Then your digestion is upset. GAS often presses heart and lungs, making life miserable. You can't eat or sleep. Your headaches. Your back aches. Your complexion is sallow and pimply. Your breath is foul. You are a sick, grouchy, wretched, unhappy person. YOUR SYSTEM IS POISONED.

Thousands of sufferers have found in Adlerika the quick, scientific way to rid their systems of harmful bacteria. Adlerika rids you of gas and cleans foul poisons out of BOTH upper and lower bowels. Give your bowels a REAL cleansing with Adlerika. Get rid of GAS. Adlerika does not gripe—is not habit forming.

EN GARDE!

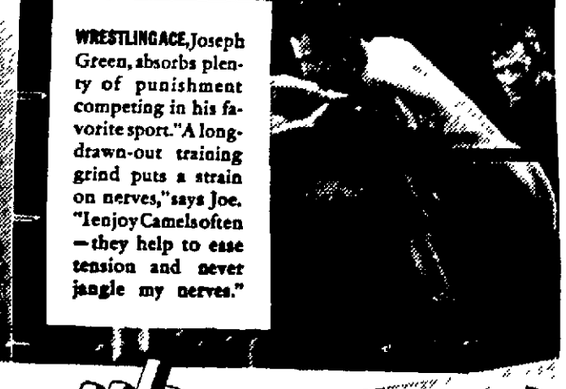
Presenting Joanna de Tuscan—Ideal American Girl Athlete—talented, attractive, fond of dancing, and WOMEN'S FENCING CHAMPION OF THE U. S.

Today the sport of fencing puts much the same value on healthy nerves and unfailing alertness as did the deadly duels of long ago.

ONLY slow motion movies could show you all the brilliance of Joanna de Tuscan's darting sword play. Attack—parry—riposte—happen too quickly for the eye to follow. In Joanna de Tuscan's own words: "A person who didn't have nerve control would never stand out in fencing. My No. 1 reason for smoking Camels is—they never jangle my nerves. Camel is the cigarette that I find permits me to smoke as often as I please. It's Camels for me 'for digestion's sake' too. They're so mild they never make my throat harsh."

DOROTHY KILGALLEN, girl reporter, was assigned to break the women's globe-circling record. She did—in 24½ days! "I was glad to have Camels with me," she says. "I know they don't frazzle the nerves—ever!"

HE BROKE the world's indoor record in the 440-yard dash twice in one day. Ray Ellinwood says: "Jittery nerves are a big bugaboo to a track man. Smoking Camels never jangles my nerves. I find that I can enjoy Camels without stint."



WRESTLING ACE, Joseph Green, absorbs plenty of punishment competing in his favorite sport. "A long-drawn-out training grind puts a strain on nerves," says Joe. "I enjoy Camels often—they help to ease tension and never jangle my nerves."

A THROTTLE MAN of the 20th Century Limited, C. J. Chase says: "I don't take chances with my nerves. I smoke Camels—smoke 'em all I have a mind to, day in and day out! Camels don't get on my nerves."

Know Yourself In Seeking Job

Ithaca, May 15—"Know yourself" before you try to "sell yourself" for a job, students at the New York state college of home economics, seeking jobs after graduation, were told by Elinor Ely, employment counselor with the Loire Brophy employment firm of New York city.

She said that each person should know his or her personality and skill and should be able to present them to an employer, because of the present keen competition for jobs. Miss Ely urged the students to ask themselves these questions:

"Do I like people? Do they like me? Am I on the defensive with them?

"Do I have courage in minor problems which arise each day, as well as in major problems?

"Do I take criticism in a surly or gracious fashion? Do I sulk? Can I say I am sorry and say it graciously? Do I ever admit, to myself and to others, that I am wrong?

"Do I cooperate? Am I willing to give more than I receive? Am I easily puffed up by authority? Can I keep my temper when others seem unfair?

"Am I happy? Can I laugh readily? Does life seem gay and magical, or somber and mysterious?

"Do I welcome the idea of going into business and pitting my skill against others; Does the possibility of earning a living frighten me? How strong are my inner drives?

"What is the most difficult job I have ever faced and how did I handle it?"

Three Steps in Job-Hunting

After self-analysis, application for a position involves three steps, according to Miss Ely; first, a letter of application which tells what the applicant thinks she can do for the business, or arranging for an interview; second, the interview, during which the prospective "boss" should do most of the talking; and third, a following letter to show interest and to repeat how the applicant thinks she can contribute to the particular job she seeks.

"The type of work in your first job is not too important. Take a job and then point it in the direction you want to go. For this reason, especially, knowledge of stenography is a valuable asset in job-getting, for it serves as an entry into many types of business. Many of the best women executives now in business started as secretaries."

Helbing to Speak at Y. W. Drive Dinner

Frederick Helbing, superintendent of the N. Y. State Vocational Institute at Coxsackie will be the guest speaker at the Y. W. C. A. budget campaign supper on Tuesday evening, at 6 o'clock. Mr. Helbing is much in demand as a speaker, and the committee feel most pleased to have secured him.

Following the talk, the campaign divisions will make their first reports, and every worker is urged to attend, bringing the subscriptions that she has secured.

In addition to the previously published list of workers in the drive, the following have also consented to assist: Mrs. Stanley Winne, Miss Helen Westbrook, Mrs. E. F. MacFadden, Miss Dorothy DuMond.

Andrew H. Ferguson of Kingston also attended the convention.

Alfred Simon of Ballston Spa is the new president of the state; Miss Florence Barnett of Syracuse was named vice president and DeWitt C. LeFever of Beaver Falls, treasurer.

Mr. Stang reported that differences among the various delegates were ironed out in committee and the convention presented a harmonious front.

Two proposed moves which had received considerable publicity before the meeting, failed to show up in the convention. They were a proposition to call for the ouster of Charles D. Hilles, national committeeman, and Ruth Pratt, national committeewoman for New York state; also a proposition to ask for the resignation of William Murray as chairman of the Republican state committee.

Women's Federation Told To "Make An Art Of Everyday Living"

Mrs. B. W. Hendrickson, state chairman of American Homes, told the Kingston Federation of Women's Clubs, Saturday, that home economics is more than the daily routine of housekeeping; it is making an art of everyday life.

She addressed the final meeting of the fiscal year at the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church. Mrs. Hendrickson, in her address, quoted Dr. Chase Woodhouse, of Connecticut College, in saying that "the successful home maker is the woman who is wise in dealing with family relations, dextrous in housekeeping skills, has a carefully thought out goal for the members of her family, and lives at the level of her close associates."

Home making is also a philosophy of life according to Mrs Hendrickson. "Company manners and company clothes don't make for happiness and poise."

In speaking of the home atmosphere, three plans were given for choosing pleasing surroundings: Elimination, taking out articles not desired; rearrangement of the furnishings, and refinishing or redecorating. These said Mrs. Hendrickson, give a home its personality.

The speaker, who is also an executive of the New York World's Fair, and in charge of the Consumer's Interest Department, reviewed the method of the planning of buying a wardrobe with a limited income and limited shopping time.

Mrs. Hendrickson spoke of the home itself, its atmosphere, and the possibilities of giving it an individual personality; of the homemaker, her health and character; and of those who make up the personnel of the family.

The club women were left with the reminder: "Don't carry over your own frustrations and traditions into the lives of your children," and the slogan, "simplicity is elegance."

The president and other leading officers of the federation were elected as follows: President, Mrs. J. C. Fraser; first vice president, Mrs Ward Brigham; second vice-president, Mrs. Clara Norton Reed; corresponding secretary, Mrs. James Mathers; recording secretary, Miss Eleanor Easton; treasurer, Miss Anne Quimby.

Preceding the meeting luncheon was served, arranged by Mrs. Clarence Dumm, and Mrs. E. O. Allen. A musical program, arranged by Mrs. C. E. Wonderly was given by Miss Helen Turner, who sang "Pine Tree," by Mary Turner Salter, and "Robin, Sing Me A Song," by Charles Gilbert Spross. She was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Walter T. Tremper.

outing yesterday and that she returned today with the report she had placed the children in a Long Island home.

The body of the little girl, Helen, aged 7, was found cut and burned yesterday afternoon in a woods about 100 yards east of the village. Gasoline had been poured on her clothing and ignited. An autopsy revealed she died of burns not more than six hours before the body was found at 2:30 p. m. The boy, James, aged 5, was nearby. He lay as if asleep. He also had been cut and burned.

Owen Connelly, a neighbor of the Tiernan family, said he last saw them Saturday at about 4 or 5 p. m., when a man with a "big car" drove them away.

Sergeant Phinney Was Astounded

Shortly after 7 o'clock Saturday evening Sergeant Charles Phinney of the police department walked out to the drinking fountain on the city hall grounds to obtain a drink of water. Just as he was bending down to drink he suddenly saw the ground cave in a few feet in front of him.

"To say the least I was astounded," said the genial sergeant.

Superintendent David Conway said that the cave-in was likely due to a leak in the sewer pipe which had eaten away the ground. The hole was about six feet in circumference and about 15 feet in depth.

The ground around the cave-in was roped off and lanterns hung on it.

This morning street department men were busy trucking dirt to the scene and filling in the excavation.

Hindenburg Rigger Gives Testimony

the trip's end, for he did not have the final watch on that duty.

Knew of No Repairs

Freund knew of no repairs being made to the gas cells even before the ship's maiden 1937 trip to America started, and could not say whether hydrogen had been valved during the landing maneuvers. During his watch between 2 and 4 p. m. as the ship neared Lakehurst, he estimated that all 16 gas cells were 13 to 14 per cent less than full.

"Did you hear anything like structure being ripped or something thrown against it?"

"No," was his answer to the question, which was apparently based on the possibility a broken propellor blade may have hurled itself through the hull, puncturing a gas bag and causing the explosive fire.

"Is there any odor to hydrogen?"

"Yes, one can smell it," he said.

There was no leak smelled during the voyage or landing maneuvers, he testified, and there was no other odor, such as burning wood or rubber.

He dismissed the possibility that a gas pocket could have formed outside a cell. The ship's ventilation system prevented this, he said.

50 Persons Killed In Hong Kong Blast

Hongkong, May 17 (AP)—The explosion of a boiler aboard a Japanese launch made a shambles of the Hongkong waterfront tonight, killing perhaps 50 persons and blowing bodies over an area of from 200 yards to a quarter of a mile.

The launch was owned by the steamship company Osaka Shosen Kaisha. Every member of her crew was killed. Other victims were numerous Chinese boatmen and passers-by in the vicinity.

Parts of several bodies were blown even onto the verandah of the Hongkong Club from the Queen's Pier vicinity, scene of the blast.

Mrs. Florence Thomas, a negress of 19 Hasbrouck avenue, was cut early Sunday evening on lower Hasbrouck avenue. She was removed to the Kingston Hospital for treatment, leaving later. At first she claimed her husband, Lee Thomas, had cut her with a knife.

Thomas was taken to police headquarters and released after questioning. He said that his wife had fallen on a glass jug and cut herself while on Catherine-street, just off Hasbrouck avenue. The broken jug was produced. Thomas was injured in a stabbing affray several days ago. Herbert Mango of 96 Broadway, was held for the grand jury on the charge of cutting Thomas.

Students to Govern City on May 25, Public Ceremony

Kingston will have its first taste of Student Government on Tuesday, May 25, when civics students at the high school will take over the affairs of the city for a day.

A Mayor, Alderman-at-Large, City Judge and 13 aldermen will be elected on Wednesday, May 19, and will be inducted into office on Monday evening at a public ceremony in the Common Council chamber, to which all citizens are invited.

Party caucuses and conventions have already been held. One set of candidates is running on the White ticket and the other on the Green ticket. It is reported that the head of one ticket for Mayor is a boy and the other one has nominated a girl. A real hot campaign is now being waged to win the election. Two of the city's voting machines will be used, under the supervision of one of the city's voting machine custodians, Arthur M. Rifenbary.

The mayor, when elected, will appoint, as required by the city charter, a city clerk, city treasurer, assessor, corporation counsel, sealer of weights and measures and others, as well as four members of the Board of Public Works, four members of the Police Board, three members of the Fire Board, three members of the Board of Public Welfare, six members of the Board of Health, nine members of the Board of Education, three members of the zoning board, three members of the Civil Service Commission, three members of the Examining Board of Plumbers and others as required by the charter. Those appointed by the mayor will operate their respective departments for the day. It is expected that the Common Council will hold an all-day legislative session to receive communications from the mayor and other boards pertaining to laws and ordinances which they recommend, and it is expected that some laws, in which the students believe, will be introduced by members of the council.

For some time Mayor Heiselman and school officials and members of the civics teaching staff, and heads of the various city departments, have been cooperating in a new experiment for Kingston. The high school civics students, numbering about 250, have been divided into various study groups for the purpose of studying the functions and performances of the various departments of the city government. The findings of the various students have been written up in essay form and bound in one volume, which is to be used by future civics classes in studying the structure and function of local government as constituted under present laws.

The object of this study by these civic groups has been to bring the students in personal contact with the subject of civics in a practical way so far as local government is concerned, to quicken their interest in local government, and to better prepare them for assuming the responsibilities of future citizenship.

Student government, such as will operate here on May 25, has been successfully inaugurated in other cities of the country with excellent results and is now a regular annual event.

Decisions are due from the court Tuesday afternoon and also a week from tomorrow, when it is anticipated, an unusually large number will be handed down. These decisions and those to be given out on subsequent Tuesdays during the four weeks' term will bring the court abreast of its work.

A recess will be taken at the end of the four weeks until July, when the court will meet for one day to hand down decisions in cases to be argued at this session. After the July session the court will recess until fall.

Number of Plans For Elimination

Kingston and submitted to the Public Service Commission on April 21, 1936, for the reasons that this plan is safe and adequate for all traffic and will preserve the maximum existing property and esthetic values under any plan of elimination under the Commission's order to depress Broadway; that the City of Kingston feels that the Commission's reason for the objecting to the city's plan because of estimates of property damage is not valid because it feels that the present options and estimates on properties to be acquired under the city's plan do not represent the lowest possible amount at which these properties can be obtained if this plan were approved and the State of New York proceeded with its execution; that because several affected property owners requested allegedly exorbitant prices for their property is no valid or fair reason why the City of Kingston should be penalized by a permanent defacement of its principal thoroughfare; that it is apparent that these several alleged property owners could not enforce their allegedly exorbitant claims if their properties were condemned by the State of New York, for the reason that the prices asked by and paid to other property owners in the same area, and suffering the same damage, would establish the values of the several properties mentioned, with a resulting lower cost of property damage and a lower cost of elimination.

(3) That if the plan as prepared by the City of Kingston can not be had, the City of Kingston desires that "Scheme B, Modified, Issue A, dated July 22, 1936," be substituted for the elimination plan provided for in the order of the Commission, known as "Issue A, dated October 23, 1935." However, the City of Kingston recommends that "Scheme B, Modified," be amended as follows:

(I) Provide access to pedestrian ramp at Broadway and Greenkill avenue.

(II) Increase the width of the sidewalk on the east side of Broadway from 5 feet to 7 feet.

(III) Increase the width of pavement on proposed street connecting Greenkill avenue with Cedar street from 24 feet to 28 feet.

(IV) Substitute pedestrian ramps for steps at Broadway and Railroad avenue.

(4) That the City of Kingston is unalterably and vigorously opposed to the elimination of the Broadway grade crossing through the medium of a plan prepared by the New York Central Railroad, known as "Issue A, dated October 23, 1935," providing for the construction of a subway within the present street lines without the acquisition of any adjoining property, on the grounds that an elimination under this plan would be dangerous, inadequate, seriously destructive of the business interests of the affected area and would permanently blight and irreparably injure the entire City of Kingston.

In summary, therefore, be it resolved:

(a) The City of Kingston requests that all the crossings in the City of Kingston be eliminated by depressing the railroad tracks.

(b) Reaffirms its unqualified approval of and preference for the City of Kingston's plan as described in Paragraph 2, and renews its request for the acceptance of this plan.

(c) Expresses its satisfaction with "Scheme B, Modified" and wishes it substituted for the plan known as "Issue A, dated October 23, 1935," but recommends that it be amended as pointed out in Paragraph 3, hereof.

(d) Vigorously and unalterably opposes the plan described as "Issue A, dated October 23, 1935."

Excelsior Hose Demands Action

fire companies in the city will be asked to press this program for elimination by depressing the tracks.

The resolution adopted Sunday by members of Excelsior Hose Company is as follows:

"Resolved, that we, the members of Excelsior Hose Company, No. 4, of the City of Kingston, N. Y., because of the recent deaths of Peter Carey and Preston DeWitt, two of our brother firemen, at the Broadway railroad crossing, hereby go on record in favor of the immediate elimination of said railroad crossing and pledge ourselves to continue the fight for same until our object is completed. This we pledge to the memory of our departed brothers.

Favor Depressing Tracks

"Be it resolved, that the plans we favor, and will fight for, are the depressing of the tracks of the West Shore railroad, thereby saving the taxpayers of our city considerable money in added taxes because of property damage, and at the same time the plan would also eliminate all other crossings in our city, which are as dangerous as the Broadway tracks. We feel as in the past that because of the recent accident the elimination will be the topic of conversation for a while only and then dropped. But with a united effort and determination of all of the firemen and their friends to see our fight through this elimination of a death trap must be, and will be, brought about.

"Be it further resolved, that in our fight for this crossing elimination, we appeal to the Veteran Volunteer Firemen's Association, comprising all the other volunteer companies of our city, and all our friends to assist us. It is something we owe ourselves, our friends and our gallant brothers, who have given their young lives for this cause. We mournfully accept the torch and promise their memory to carry on to see that no others will follow in their footsteps."

Losses due to robbery of freight on railroads of the United States and Canada in 1936 were the smallest on record, averaging 1.8 cents per loaded car.

Texaco Fleet to Stop at Kingston

At 10:30 o'clock Tuesday morning, May 18, the 1937 Texaco Test Fleet No. 7 is scheduled to arrive in Kingston.

This fleet started from Detroit at 7:30 o'clock Saturday morning, beginning a tour that will carry it through the 48 states, including the state capitals, national parks, and other places of interest to the motorist. It will cover approximately 25,000 miles.

All types of highway driving conditions will be encountered, ranging from the torrid heat of Death Valley to the atmospheric conditions encountered while climbing Pike's Peak. The altitudes will vary from 276 feet below sea level to 14,000 feet above sea level.

The fleet will consist of 12 stock cars taken from the assembly lines at Detroit, and each car will be equipped with scientific instruments to record air, fuel ratio, fuel consumption at various speeds, loads, and altitudes. In addition each car will have an altimeter, a barimeter, and two thermometers, one Fahrenheit and one Centigrade. Each of these cars will use Texaco gasoline and Texaco motor oil, purchased en route.

The fleet will stop at the service station at 649 Broadway.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By CLAUDE E. JAGGER.

New York, May 17 (AP).—Stock market leaders shifted indefinitely today over a creeping ticker tape.

In one of the slowest sessions in more than a year the list inclined to lean backward. Only a handful of issues managed to retain modest plus signs near the final hour.

Transfers were at the rate of 500,000 shares.

Bonds and commodities were uneven, but grains inclined to do better.

Among new lows posted for the year or longer were those of American Tobacco "B", Reynolds "B", Standard Oil of N. J., Electric Power & Light, Public Service of N. J., and National Biscuit.

Narrow to well on the downside were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, Republic, General Motors, Chrysler, Allis Chalmers, Goodyear, U. S. Rubber, Goodrich, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, International Harvester, Boeing, Douglas Aircraft, United Aircraft, American Telephone, Consolidated Edison, American Water Works, Kennecott, Cerro De Pasco, American Smelting, Texas Corp., General Electric, American Can, American Locomotive, Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Pennsylvania, Northern Pacific, Baltimore & Ohio, Paramount, Loew's and Standard Oil of California.

In the resistant group were Philip Morris, General Foods, National Cash Register, Woolworth, Yellow Truck, American Steel Foundries and Anaconda.

Du Pont slipped as the company declared an interim dividend of $2 and announced plans to issue new cumulative preferred stock.

Explanations of Stock Decline Far From Satisfactory

The rapid decline in security and commodity markets in the early part of the week, was followed by a gain of part of the lost ground when the market closed Saturday, but stocks had still lost much more than their previous week's recoveries.

Explanations of the decline are far from satisfactory. Given as the most evident reasons are a certain amount of selling from abroad and rumors of a more or less political flavor.

Business conditions as a whole do not seem to warrant the action of the security markets. There is a question as to whether the rapid expansion of industrial production during the past year has not been overdone, just as the primary commodity markets overdiscounted world recovery. On the other hand the total of engineering construction contracts more than doubled the record for the corresponding 1936 period. The trend of building activity is persistently upward. Steel output was scheduled at 92 per cent of capacity, the same as in the preceding week. Fundamental trade conditions are seen as promising. Crop prospects point to enlarged farm purchasing power in the fall Domestic consumption of cotton continues upward. The railroads are showing a restoration of earning power, which means expansion of requisitions for materials, labor anad equipment. The rising wage level, although it creates problems of cost and price readjustments, is adding to the consumption fund.

It is realized that political uncertainties have had their effect on the market. The expressed concern of the Administration lest high prices reduce consumption has helped check severely the more purely speculative operations in markets both here and abroad.

There is persistent belief that action in regard to monetary practices is not improbable. One commentator puts the situation thus: "Short of direct price-fixing legislation, which is apparently not imminent, price control must be achieved by monetary control instruments; bank reserve requirements having just been raised to the legal limit and the rediscount rate being ineffective in the absence of commercial borrowing as well as unpleasant in its implications as to all interest rates, the only commodity price control available to the government is its buying price for gold. Despite repeated and emphatic official denials of such a pose, the belief lingers, faintly here but more vigorously abroad, that some shading of the $35 an ounce bid may be impending. Such a state of mind, even if not very widespread, has the opposite of a stabilizing influence upon all world markets."

The highest common dividend rate for the oil industry in six years is forecast for 1937.

Celotex resumed common dividend payments with a declaration of 40 cents.

Automobile manufacturers in Detroit area will make few changes in 1938 models, according to present plans.

Senator Bridges of New Hampshire warned last night that inflation of prices and "back breaking taxes" are inevitable unless the government quits spending more than it collects in revenues.

MacKnight Girl Tells Murder Story

Jersey City, N. J., May 17 (AP).—A drama of conflict between the younger generation and the older unfolded today in Hudson county court with slim, blonde Gladys MacKnight, 17, and the tall youth she once loved, on trial in the hatchet-slaying of her mother.

The urge of youth to have its way in the face of parental restrictions loomed as a factor in the state's case as Prosecutor Daniel T. O'Regan went to court to ask death by electrocution for the girl and red-haired Donald Wightman, 18, a former church chorister.

The prospect of hearing the story behind the story in the hatcheting last July 31 of Mrs. Helen MacKnight, 47, literary chairman of a Bayonne woman's club, drew a capacity crowd to the courtroom.

This was the story on the police records:

In the kitchen of their house in Bayonne, Mrs. MacKnight's body was found by her husband, Edgar, when he came home from work at a cable company.

Gladys had been at a beer garden with Donald in the afternoon and went home with him eager to have dinner early and get on the courts for a twilight game of tennis.

Mrs. MacKnight didn't like Donald, and she tried to break up the match, the girl was quoted by Police Chief Cornelius J. O'Neill of Bayonne as saying after her arrest.

During a quarrel because her mother wouldn't hurry dinner "she advanced on me with a butcher knife", O'Neill quoted Gladys as saying, and the slaying followed.

Lehman Agrees To Hear Claims

Albany, N. Y., May 17 (AP)—Governor Herbert H. Lehman today agreed to arbitrate the rival claims of Texas, Arkansas, Illinois and New York for custody of youthful, mild-appearing Lester Brockelhurst, alleged three state killer.

Charles Poletti, counsel to the Governor, announced that the chief executive would preside at a conference here at 6 p. m. (EDT) today between contesting state officials, all of whom seek extradition of Brockelhurst so he may be tried on murder charges.

Announcement of the conference was made here as a meeting of the sheriffs and prosecutors, called to discuss the situation, broke up without a decision at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., where the prisoner is being held.

District Attorney John R. Schwartz, of Dutchess county, said at Poughkeepsie that Texas, Illinois and Arkansas officials all contended they had the best murder case against Brockelhurst and declined to relinquish their respective claims.

A. F. OF L. AND C. I. O. ENGAGED IN OPEN WARFARE

New York, May 17 (AP).—The American Federation of Labor and the Committee for Industrial Organization were engaged in open warfare today for the control of labor in the nation's municipal transit systems from coast to coast.

The C. I. O., headed by John L. Lewis, won an overwhelming victory over the week-end in a collective bargaining referendum on New York's Interborough Rapid Transit lines, operating the city's largest network of subway and elevated lines. Its affiliated Transport Workers Union polled 10,638 of the 11,585 votes cast.

Aroused by this, John J. Sullivan, general organizer for the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway and Motor Coach employes, A. F. of L. affiliate which boycotted the referendum, announced his union would not abide by the result of the referendum and that it would carry its fight to the Supreme Court if necessary.

Revolt Suppressed

Belgrade, Yugoslavia, May 7 (AP).—The Albania revolt, its leaders disclosed today, was chiefly a Mohammedan effort to check the spread of modernism and liberalism within the country ruled by King Zog. Rebel advices filtering across the border from Argyrokastro confirmed that the revolt was being suppressed, but they contradicted government assertions that Communists were instigators.

Piedmont Club Burns

Atlanta, May 17 (AP).—Fire early today damaged the Piedmont Driving Club, society rendezvous. The loss was estimated by Guido Negri, superintendent, at between $75,000 and $100,000.

Matthews Will Rebuild Burned Creamery, He Says

Interviewed today at his office on Hurley and Washington avenues, Frank Matthews, vice president of the Great Bull Markets, said that the concern will start rebuilding its Downs street property, formerly the old dairy, and later the U.P.A. headquarters, which was destroyed by fire early Saturday morning.

According to Mr. Matthews, the damage amounted to approximately $18,000, besides a loss of about $1,000 in stock which had been moved into the building. He said the cause of the fire had not been determined.

The front part of the building, where the creamery offices were located, was not damaged to any great extent. Repairs will be made to the roof, a portion of which was burned. The walls were not harmed by the fire.

The Bull Markets took possession of the building on May 1 to use as a storehouse and planned on building a large cooler, 70 by 30 feet. Some arrangements for this will be carried out under the direction of Jay Rifenbary, general contractor.

Mr. Rifenbary had workmen repairing the building, but they had not completed much on it prior to the fire. Work will commence immediately on the construction of a one-story brick building, 70 by 40 feet.

The new cooler will be used to store poultry, meat, eggs and butter, bought by the Great Bull in carload lots.

Four markets are operated by the Great Bull, two in Kingston, one at Washington and Hurley avenue, the other on Smith avenue, and one in Poughkeepsie and the other in Newburgh.

Mr. Matthews in his interview said that the concern intended starting another market in Poughkeepsie.

AIR SERVICE OVER ATLANTIC PLANNED

Britain Gathers Data to Plot Flying Charts.

London, England. —At Foynes, on the River Shannon in Ireland, imaginary flights are made daily over the Atlantic, in preparation for regular air service to America, the air ministry has revealed.

Meteorological experts of the air ministry and Imperial Airways plot a "flight" in accord with reports of wind strength and direction and other weather information received by radio from ships and transferred immediately to "synoptic" charts that give a general picture of the weather over the 2,000 miles between Ireland and Newfoundland.

The experiments were begun in London, but when they reached an advanced stage they were transferred to Foynes, near which are the land and sea bases from which the Imperial and Pan-American planes will operate across the Atlantic.

Accepted Theories Erroneous.

The work has shown that generally accepted beliefs about Atlantic weather must be radically revised. Prevalent, for example, is the theory of a constant west to east wind, making all flights from Europe to America difficult and dangerous. This is generally true, but the weather men have discovered that there are many days when conditions favor rather than hamper the westward flight.

On a day in last December, for example, the wind was blowing so strongly from the east all the way across the ocean that a flight to America could have been made in record time.

In addition to constant weather information received from transatlantic steamers the Foynes station has a weather expert journeying back and forth constantly across the north Atlantic on board the steamer Manchester Port. His duty is to discover all he can about prevailing air currents and conditions in the upper air. His work will be continued for a year.

Looses Small Balloons.

He releases small colored balloons of hydrogen, which rise at the rate of 500 feet a minute to the limit of visibility, which is about 10,000 feet. Variations of their course show the direction and strength of winds affecting them. After lightning calculations and comparisons with weather reports received by radio from other ships this data is flashed to Foynes. Upper air temperatures also are taken to combat the problem of ice formation on the planes.

The work has thrown into prominence the need for a meteorological station between the British isles and Greenland, to cover a zone which few ships visit and where no trustworthy source of information exists.

The goal of these efforts is the establishment of an organization capable of handing the commander of a transatlantic air liner, before he takes off, a complete, dependable analysis of weather then prevailing and likely to prevail for the duration of his flight across the ocean.

Experimental flights by special transoceanic land planes, sea planes and the Mayo "composite," or "piggy-back," ships will be carried out during the next few months. Informed British aviation opinion, however, believes that regular airmail flights will not be begun until some time in 1938 and that passenger schedules will not be possible before 1939 or 1940.

No Security Ruling

Washington, May 17 (AP)—The Supreme Court failed today to pass on constitutionality of the Federal Social Security Act.

U.S Supreme Court Upholds 1930 Act

Washington, May 17 (AP)—The Supreme Court today upheld provisions of the 1936 revenue act restricting government refunds out of the $963,000,000 of processing and floor stock taxes collected under the invalidated agricultural adjustment act.

Chief Justice Hughes, delivering the 8 to 1 opinion, said:

"We conclude that the authorized procedure provides for a full and fair hearing and determination of all matters of fact and that, through judicial review, it provides for the protection of all the legal rights of the petitioner including any constitutional right which it may be entitled to invoke with respect to the refund which it seeks.

"The petitioner may thus obtain through this proceeding whatever judgment its case warrants, a judgment which the government, by virtue of the requirement that the commissioner (of internal revenue) shall make refund accordingly, binds itself to pay."

Administration officials engaged in attempting to balance the budget expressed gratification at the court's decision.

It was delivered on litigation by the Anniston Manufacturing Company of Alabama seeking to recover $269,854 paid as taxes under the agricultural adjustment act.

Louisiana Law Upheld by Court

power even though those advantages and that power are largely due to the fact that the taxpayer does business not only in Louisiana but in other states."

Justice Sutherland, in his dissent said that "the exaction here involved is not a tax upon Louisana property or business, but is essentially a penalty imposed upon an operator of business wholly beyond the reach of the law of that state.

"We are not able," he added, "to concede that it lies within the province of one state to thus indirectly penalize a method of doing business in another state, which it may be the policy of the latter to permit or, indeed, encourage."

A number of states have levied special taxes against chain stores but they were based on the number of units operated within the state. The Supreme Court has upheld such taxes.

Other challengers of the Louisana law included F. W. Woolworth Company, J. C. Penney Company, Montgomery Ward and Company, Sears, Roebuck and Company, and Liggett Drug Company.

Termination of the walkout, which affected 2,000 workers in eight downtown hotels, averted its spread to 20 other hotels included in the St. Louis Hotel Association.

When a colored revivalist was caught hugging one of the young girls of the congregation, members of the flock asked him to explain his actions. The preacher got a picture showing the Good Shepherd with a lamb in His arms.

Preacher—As Ah am de good shepherd of dis here flock, Ah ought to be able to hold a lamb in mah arms if Ah wants to.

This was a satisfactionary explanation to the deacons and elders, but they called a little meeting in the Sunday School room and while there framed this resolution which was read to the preacher:

"We, the deacons and elders of dis here church, resolved that it is all right for Brudder Johnson to hold de lamb in his arms if he wants to providin' it am a ram lamb."

Friend—What a loving wife you have! Here you've been married for 5 years and I notice that she still meets you at the door when you come home from work.

Man—Yes, she's afraid I'll forget to wipe my feet before I come in.

Read It Or Not

The boy is the laziest animal in the world.

A popular referee was at a charitable boxing display, and appeared for the first time in evening clothes. When the first bout was due, he went into the ring and, with arms outstretched, turned slowly to secure silence.

As a deep hush settled over the audience, a cockney cried out: "It's all right, Bert, what about buying it?"

Old Ragson Tatters, of Brushville, says nowadays too many folks think the world owes them a living; and what's worse, they want to be paid cash in advance.

Stranger—Young man, your corn looks kind of yellow.

Farm Boy—Yes, that's the kind we planted.

Stranger—Don't look as if you'd get more than half a crop.

Farm Boy—Don't expect to. The landlord gets the rest.

Stranger—Boy, there isn't much difference between you and a fool.

Farm Boy—No, only the fence.

You can't preserve your health by getting pickled.

Hal—See that gray-haired old man over there? Well, he made my first suit for me when I was in college.

Cal—Yeh? And what's he doing now?

Hal—Still trying to collect for it.

One sure way to failure is to think up some way of getting money besides doing something to deserve it.

What is plain to one man may not be plain to another, as, for instance:

Customer (in drug store)—Waitress!

Waitress—What is it, please?

Customer—A ham sandwich.

Waitress—A what?

Customer—A ham sandwich.

Waitress—Ham sandwich isn't on the menu, but I can give you a sandwich with ham in it....like a Midnight Special.

Customer—What's a Midnight Special?

Waitress—A triple decker with ham, cheese, tongue, baloney, tomato, lettuce, onion, pickle, mayonnaise, on raisin bread, toasted with cold slaw on the side.

Customer—Look! Have your any ham?

Waitress—Yes, sir!

Customer—White bread?

Waitress—Yes, sir!

Customer—Could you place a piece of ham between two slices of white bread and serve same to me on a plate?

Waitress—Why sure! (turning and yelling to soda jerker)—Oh, George, one Midnight Special. Make it on one deck. Hold the cheese, tongue, baloney, tomato, lettuce, onion, mayonnaise, and cold slaw; and make the raisin bread white, unroasted.....Right?

WOODSTOCK SCHOOL STUDENTS SEE MOVIES

Woodstock, May 17—It was time for the movies again at the Woodstock School on May 10. Pupils saw two on Russia and one on each of the following: Cork Production, a Hawaiian Sugar Plantation, Irrigation, Textile Manufacturing, and Porto Rico and Minor U. S. Possessions. They will probably be seen only two more times this season.

Friday, May 14, the Rev. Mr. Todd presented a set of safety first pictures. They were enjoyed by all.

Sixteen girls from the sixth, seventh and eighth grades are practicing for the Maypole dance. It is to be held on June 4. Mrs. Cohen is training them.

Miss Agnes Schleicher is training 12 children from the third and fourth grades for a gnome dance.

Pupils are very sorry to have to give "Pete", their woodchuck, away, as they are very fond of him. He is educated and makes a lovely pet. If any one would like to adopt him for the summer see Mr. Elghmey at the Woodstock school.

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—The names Astaire and Rogers over the box-office will mean more than ever after "Shall We Dance?" And the name of Mark Sandrich, who directed this most original of their offerings, should go up five or six rungs higher on the ladder.

Not since "The Gay Divorcee," first co-starring vehicle of the dancing pair, has Hollywood seen their talents displayed so sparklingly.

A Tangled Plot

Astaire, playing a Pennsylvania boy masquerading as a Russian for professional reasons, falls in love with Ginger's photographs and decides to marry her. He pursues her from Paris to New York, where a gossipy report of their marriage has preceded them. Ginger's efforts to untangle the situation and marry a dull playboy only enmesh them further, leading to a proposal of marriage from the pursued to the pursuer as the way out. But it doesn't end there, of course.

All of this permits the logical introduction of such high spots as Astaire's imitation of a temperamental Russian dancer for Ginger's benefit; his steam-room dance on shipboard; his dance on roller skates with Ginger; his ballet performance with Harriet Hoctor, who plays herself; and Eric Blore's hysterical attempts to explain to Edward Everett Horton, via telephone, that he is detained at the Susquehanna police station.

Music By Gershwin

George Gershwin did the music and Ira the lyrics. The support includes Jerome Cowan, Ketti Gallian, and William Brisbane.

Mark Sandrich is a young director (36) from New York who has been in pictures since 1922. He wrote and directed features and comedies in comparative obscurity until one of his shorts—"So This Is Harris"—impressed RKO.

Since then he has done several of the Astaire-Rogers hits, all excellent but none so marked by individuality as his latest. Credit must be given for many laugh lines and situations to Allan Scott and Ernest Pagano, screen playwrights, but the touch of Sandrich is always present. Laugh situations they developed on the set include Blore's Susquehanna episode, so hilarious that many lines are lost in laughter; Astaire's weaving trickery to make Horton seasick; the surprise ending to the roller-skate dance; and Horton's reaction to the news picture brought in by Astaire.

PREVIEWED

Today

Broadway: "Personal Property". Handsome Robert Taylor plus the glittering Jean Harlow make quite a team in the photodrama at the Broadway, the story of a young man who becomes the butler to a love seeking young lady. Created for laughs and romantic situations, the play is a tart and thoroughly enjoyable bit of nonsense, made first rate entertainment because of W. S. Van Dyke's direction. Reginald Owen is also in the cast.

Kingston: "The Woman I Love." Joseph's Kessel's novel of the war has been made into a dramatic talking picture at the Kingston as it tells how the shock and brutality of killing reacts upon the minds of the principals in the cast. The production is essentially a love story, placed against the backdrop of a war torn country and Paul Muni and Miriam Hopkins wring every drop of tragedy from the characterizations. Louis Hayward is also featured in the cast and his work is outstanding and eloquently done. Anatole Litvak directed.

Orpheum: "Arizona Mahoney" and "Navy Spy." Zane Grey's comical tale of the west becomes laughable stuff on the Orpheum screen with Joe Cook in the starring role and supported by Buster Crabbe, June Martel and Robert Cummings. "Navy Spy" is the other feature, an espionage story, with Conrad Nagel and an unimportant cast.

Tomorrow

Broadway: Same.

Kingston: "Motor Madness" and "The Man Who Could Work Miracles." Motor boat racing is the subject of "Motor Madness" and the film fairly gasps its way through a string of hair raising moments with plenty of romance and intrigue thrown in for good measure. Allen Brook and Rosalind Keith are featured. "The Man Who Could Work Miracles" is a splendidly done screen version of the Wells story that concerns a man able to work miracles. A tiny fellow, he becomes the world's most powerful force, for there is nothing he cannot do. Roland Young is starred and this British made film is really worth seeing.

Orpheum: Same.

It is wise to have the interior heat absorbing surfaces of furnaces and boilers thoroughly cleaned now so that they will be ready for use when the plant is put into operation in the fall. These furnaces should be kept clean thereafter so that the full efficiency of the plant may be maintained.

Po'keepsie Nine Here Wednesday

Kingston High School's baseball warriors will tackle Poughkeepsie's strong unit in a return joust at the Athletic Field on Wednesday afternoon at 3:30. The Millermen vanquished the Bridge City crew by a 6-3 score last week in the first of a traditional home-and-home series and the return encounter promises to be a first-rate struggle. Clubbing out 15 hits and routing Carl Munson, the locals showed the first signs of a hitting splurge by decisively defeating the Blue and White. Kingston trailed for five innings but shoved over five runs in the closing frames to clinch the game.

Twice thwarted in attempts to hold games during the close of last week, the local sluggers will endeavor to continue their winning streak by taking over the invading Kallochmen. Friday's slated contest with Liberty was cancelled due to a prevailing illness on the mountaineer's squad while Saturday's contest with the Alumni was called off at the last minute by Coach Miller. Charley Bock or Ed Schoonmaker will get the call on Wednesday for mound duty with Vinnie Stearns, southpaw twirler, heaving them for the Bridge City unit. Poughkeepsie has captured six out of eight contests, while the locals have captured three wins in four clashes and possess a winning streak of three straight.

Kingston High School Trackmen Win Cornwall Meet by 49 to 46

Kingston's courageous cinder churners emerged victorious over New York Military Academy Saturday afternoon at Cornwall in a thrill-packed 49-46 duel. Headed by Captain Mike Weiner, the Maroon captured six first place spots to achieve one of the most sensational upsets in recent Hudson Valley track history. With Weiner annexing firsts in the 100 and 220 dashes, and Bushnell, Sperling, Winfield, Wiren and Shultis also winning events, the locals registered their first dual meet victory since the inauguration of the sport.

The Maroon dash-men turned in an inspired performance in the running events and captured the 100, 220, 440 and mile races for almost a clean sweep of the dashes. Bill Bushnell, Harry Sperling and Holt Winfield took over the first spot in the high jump and pole vault features to rack up valuable points for the Maroon during the vital closing phases of the meet. The Maroon milers swept all three places in the three-lap grind with Jess Shultis, Ike Campbell and Parslow running one-two-three. Bill Bushnell and Harry Sperling tied for first place in the high jump with Winfield and Stahl placing first and third in the vault. Gene Wiren, local recruit sensation, flashed to the front in the 440 with George Celuch placing third.

Cavorting on the famed perfection of the Academy track layout, the Klas-Connick machine annexed its first victory in record time with the entire meet being run off with military precision. Weather conditions were perfect and despite a slightly moist surface, good times were turned in during the dashes. With the baseball, golf and tennis matches being rained, track captured the spotlight and the locals gained the long sought limelight of victory by the sensational upset of the prep school unit.

Sunny Banks, local broadjumper, suffered a painful series of gashes in his left thigh when he unfortunately fell heavily on the teeth of an upturned rake.

Tagging Major League Bases

(By The Associated Press)

Just four weeks ago today, big league baseball lifted the curtain on its annual follies—and already a lot of the production heads are yelling for more aspirin.

Outside of Pie Traynor, who is forgetting all about those pepless Pittsburgh blues of the past, and the various club magnates, who are having too good a time listening to swingier turnstile tunes, there isn't a director in the show without a full-sized headache.

To mention only a few, there's suffering Steve O'Neil, who can't do a thing for the away-from-home jitters of his Cleveland Indians; and Bill Terry, who wonders why the second-division clubs always pick on his Giants, and Charley Grimm, whose injured list is so long and still growing that he's thinking of installing hospital cots in the Cubs' clubhouse.

The week-end added a few more pains to these sufferers and a lot of others, but for Traynor and the moguls—particularly the latter—everything was beer and skittles. The faithful turned out all over both circuits yesterday, with some 180,000 cash customers jamming through the gates.

Traynor couldn't find a thing to worry about even if he looked for it. His Pirates, for years one of the outfits that had the stuff and didn't know what to do with it, have reversed themselves completely, and, at their current pace are going to be about as easy to catch as Jesse Owens. Continuing to show their new-found "zip" they knocked off the Cardinals again yesterday 2-1 to take a 3½ game hold on First place in the National League.

Yankees 1st Again

Joe McCarthy, whose Yankees didn't give him any cause to smile in their just-concluded western whirl, found the clouds disappearing as his revamped lineup regained first place in the American League by topping the Athletics 8-4 before 38,728 fans, largest Shibe Park crowd since the championship days of '29, '30 and '31. Rookie Tom Henrich did the heavy clouting and Red Ruffing made a seven-hit 1937 pitching debut.

Cleveland's Indians, dropping a 6-4 decision to the White Sox in Chicago, maintained their record in their away-from-home games this season. So far, they've played four, and have lost four times.

The Giants, still third in the National League, would be a lot higher if they could get by those second division outfits. Claude Passeau blanked them 6-0 for the Phillies yesterday, marking the eighth time out of 11 losses this year that the league champions have been belted around by second-division troublemakers.

For a few moments, things looked brighter for Charley Grimm yesterday, with Catcher Gabby Hartnett and Pitcher Tex Carleton returning to the Cubs from the hospital list. But Hartnett went right back on with a split finger, and Carleton, as relief pitcher, lost a 3-2 decision to the Cincinnati Reds. Chick Hafey, at bat for the first time in two years, drove in the winning run with a fly in the ninth.

Two distance battles marked the program, with the Boston Bees nosing out Brooklyn and Van Mungo 4-3 in 12 innings, and the Boston Red Sox socking Washington's slipping Senators 6-5 in 11.

Detroit's Tigers finally clicked against the St. Louis Browns with a 5-4 win as Roxie Lawson came through with his fifth pitching triumph.

YESTERDAY'S STARS.

(By the Associated Press)

Tom Henrich, Yankees — Hit homer, triple and single, driving in four runs in 8-4 win over Athletics.

Chick Hafey, Reds—His ninth inning fly sent in winning run to beat Cubs 3-2

Eric McNair, Red Sox—Pinch-hit single in 12th inning brought in winning run for 6-5 victory over Senators.

Vince DiMaggio, Bees—Singled in 11th to send deciding run across in a 4-3 win over Dodgers.

Claude Passeau, Phillies—Shut out Giants with five hits and drove two runs in with double in 6-0 win.

Babe Herman, Tigers—His single in sixth sent run across to break tie and beat Browns 5-4.

Joe Bowman and Arky Vaughan, Pirates—Former muffled Cards with hits; Vaughan's double drove in first run in 2-1 win.

Minter Hayes, White Sox—Hit two singles and batted in two runs in 6-4 win over Indians.

A macrozamia tree in Queensland, Australia, estimated to be more than 12,000 years old, is believed the oldest living thing on earth.

The Kingston Colonials, who travel to Hartford next Sunday, shellacked the Yonkers All Stars, 16-2, Sunday at Pan Am Field before one of the largest turnouts in recent years.

"King Kong" Shacket, Colonial mound ace, allowed only six scattered hits, and fanned nine batsmen. He was master of the situation except for a slip in the sixth when he forced in a run.

Eighteen hits in all were garnered by the Colonials off three Yonkers hurlers, J. Cavanaugh, Gore and Myers. Charley Lay led the attack with two doubles and a pair of singles. Charlie Tiano smashed out a double and three one-sackers, and Les Brink clipped off three singles.

Hoffman's double to deep center opened the game. Husta walked and Lay cracked a double to deep left center. Two more hits and an error brought up a quintet of markers.

Marc Tiano's single, a sacrifice, Brink's first hit and Martin's two bagger to right brought about two more for the Colonials in the third.

The locals chalked up doubles by Hoffman and Charlie Tiano, singles by Lay and Shackett along with an error to stack up four runs in the fifth. Four runs in the sixth came about when Hoffman and Husta walked. Lay hit a double, Brink and C. Tiano singles. A pair of singles and a walk terminated the scoring in the eighth.

Carlie Husta, basketball luminary, failed with the bat, the pitchers walking him four times. He played well at the hot corner, and in general turned in a neat performance with Les Brink, former Saugerties star, playing the keystone sack.

AS WAR ADMIRAL WON THE PREAKNESS BY A HEAD

War Adbmiral upheld his claim to the three-year-old turf title by repeating his Kentucky Derby victory in the $50,000 Preakness at the Pimlico track near Baltimore. Shown here is the thrilling finish, with Pompoon making a game challenge but losing by a head.

War Admiral, the Real Champion

Baltimore, May 17 (AP).—Out of War Admiral's flashing triumphs in the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness there shaped up today a feud of thoroughbreds that may become a classic of American racing.

The other principal is the long-striding bay colt, Pompoon, the only racer that has even been able to get up and run with the brilliant son of Man o' War as a three-year-old.

This strong-limbed son of Pompey from the stable of J. H. Louchheim was a length and a half behind the champion at the finish of the derby. Yet, having proved he is a stayer, he came back at Samuel D. Riddle's Speedster in the Preakness Saturday at Pimlico with such force that he made the race one of the greatest the historic "Old Hilltop" course has even seen.

The two thoroughbreds, both in top condition, drove down the stretch neck and neck, out-distancing the rest of the field by lengths just as they had done in the Derby. It looked once as though Pompoon might win but War Admiral, responding with a quick burst of speed, shoved his head well in front at the finish.

War Admiral's time for the mile and three sixteenths was 1:58 2-5, just a fifth of a second slowed than the record high quest set for the stake in 1934 on a fast track. The Admiral's net prize money was $45,600, bringing his total winnings to $121,400.

Appleknockers Score Double Win

The Old Catskill Appleknockers ran their winning streak to seven games, beating the Rienzo A. C. softballers in a doubleheader by successive scores of 4-3 and 6-0 at Barmann's Lot Sunday afternoon.

In the opener Frank Roe and Vince Smedes each pounded out a double and single to pace the winners' nine-hit attack on Albany, losing pitcher. A single by Roe with two out and the bases loaded in the seventh sent Schatzel across with the winning run. D. Perry slashed out a trio of hits for the losers. Bob Balfe relieved Artie Kaplan in the sixth frame to receive credit for the victory.

In the second game Smedes pounded out a triple and double in two trips, while Debrosky's triple and single were the outstanding hits.

Working in the last four innings after replacing Balfe, Ben Toffel gave up only one single of the four garnered by the losers throughout.

Albany Wrestling Program Tuesday

Albany, May 17—Ernie Dusek and Joe Cox, wrestling's leading rivals for rough-house laurels, are pitted against each other here Tuesday night in the 10th Infantry Armory.

Cox and Dusek became keen rivals about a year and a half ago when Joe was making the grade as an outstanding heavyweight and Ernie was hammering at the portals of the throne room.

Demitri LaRue, French grappler, will make his Albany debut in a semi-final with Hank Barber, crack Cambridge, Mass., grappler.

The half hour matches will send Pat Kelly, Boston Irishman, against Babe Caddock, New Haven, and Bobby Managoff, Chicago, against Harry Finklestein, New York.

FLYING DUTCHMAN AT ALTAMONT TRACK AGAIN.

Altamont, May 17.—Invading Altamont for the avowed purpose of toppling existent speed marks, young Tommy Hinnershitz, the Pennsylvania Flying Dutchman from Reading, will try again where few have succeeded.

Hinnerschitz, initial entrant for the Memorial Day auto races here Monday, May 31, is determined to erase the half mile qualifying standard hung up by Bob Sall, of Paterson, N. J., in 1935. Twice has the lad from Reading undertaken the stiff assignment and each time defeat was the ultimate reward.

Last year Hinnershitz finished second to Frankie Bailey of New Brunswick, N. J., in the eastern states speed championship. One triumph at Altamont was numbered among his conquests.

At the close of the World War the British flying corps had 30,000 officers and 22,000 planes.

Sunday afternoon at Fiarview diamond, Stone Ridge, the Huron Indians suffered a setback at the hand of the Berardi A. C., which won the tilt 7-5 on six runs in the fourth and fifth innings.

Ben Lievre, ace of the Ridge mound staff, sent 13 stickmen to the showers but the Berardis bunched nine hits effectively to administer the defeat to the Indians of Fred Baumgarten.

For the Berardias, "Spot" Cullen went the route on the hill, allowing only one run until the seventh when the Hurons put two across. The Indians fought desperately in the next two frames, but could do no better than tally one apiece in each.

Tom Berardi and Elmer Hopper led the Berardi hitting parade with a double and two singles apiece. Hank Cragan touched Cullen for three singles in five tries at the platter. McLean, Lamb and Ashdown got two safeties apiece for the Redskins.

Four errors marred the Berardi record, but the City League champions of 1935 stood behind Cullen with stellar support otherwise, chalking up two double plays to break the rallies.

Jimmy Hines Is Open Golf Victor

Bloomfield, N. J., May 17 (AP)—There was glory and cash for Jimmy Hines in his victory in the 13th annual metropolitan open golf championship, but there was sympathy for Sam Snead, who finished four strokes behind Hines' 279 in third place.

Snead came up from White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., to make his local debut in this tournament.

The first day he shaved two strokes off par. The second he shot a 65 that broke the competitive course record, only to see that round go into the discard when rain rendered the Forest Hill Field Club course unplayable.

The 24-year-old youngster went out the next day and shot a 70 to hold a one-stroke lead over 36 holes.

But, as one expert put it, "You can't win the same tournament twice in the same week." And yesterday, in the final 36 holes of the "met," Sam found out the truth of that statement.

His drives were going off line and his putting was poor. His scores soared above par and, as a result, he had to be content with third place, his 283 trailing Hines' 279 and the 280, even par, posted by Henry Picard, Ryder Cupper from Hershey, Pa.

Another thing the world needs is a war history not of the statesmen and generals and troops, but of the women and children who are starved, gassed and bombed.

Puerto Rican farmers are being urged to grow vanilla beans, whose extract produces probably the world's most popular flavor, as a step in the island's economic rehabilitation.

N. Rose of Wurtsboro Wins Shoot At Ulster County Gun Club Traps

Nathan Rose of Wurtsboro walked off with most of the honors at the registered trap shoot held Sunday on the Ulster County Gun Club grounds. With a score of 92 in the 100-target 16-yard event he took first money in Class A and also high gun prize for the day. In the yardage handicap 50-target event, shooting from the 20-yard mark he tied with E. B. Underhill of Poughkeepsie for first with 44 out of 50. William Lang of Saugerties took second money in Class A with 89 out of 100, and Phil Levy of Newburgh and Arch Rose of Fallsburgh tied for third with 88 out of 100.

In Class B Underhill placed first with 91 out of 100, followed by H. J. Cooper of Poughquag with 90 and A. G. Benoit and Roy Sutliff, local club members, who tied for third with 84 out of 100 targets. Frank C. Chaffee of Ulster Park placed second in the handicap string with 43 out of 50.

There were but 11 shooters, seven of them competing in the handicap event. The day was ideal for the sport, but trout fishing was given as one of the reasons for the small entry. Only three shooters from the Kingston club participated.

A large number of spectators turned out to watch the gunners perform. Among them were many skeet shooters looking for action. After the registered shoot was run off about 500 targets were thrown from the skeet traps.

Two members of the Rochdale Rod and Gun Club of Poughkeepsie paid the local club a visit and negotiations were started for a team skeet-shoot between the two clubs in the near future.

Sunday's registered trap shoot scores are as follows:

	50 Hdk.	100 16-yd.

E. B. Underhill	44	91

City League Opens Tuesday at Athletic Field Starting 6:15 p. m.

Marshall Eldridge Outboard Winner

New York, May 17 (AP)—It doesn't look easy. Not 130 miles of the Hudson river, even when the weather is clear and the sun bright. Not in a tiny boat with the temperament of an opera singer and the sturdiness of an egg-shell. Not with the motor pounding and your arms and shoulders aching from keeping the craft clear of driftwood.

But Marshall Eldredge says it is. Marshall should know. Yesterday he piloted a Class C outboard hydroplane down the Hudson from Albany to New York to win outboard motorboating's most spectacular race.

"Wasn't so bad," he shouted, as he rested shortly after coming ashore at a Dyckman street boathouse near the finish line.

"I had easy going. Just gave her the gas and came on through. There's a lot of driftwood, though. Gosh, I didn't even see Clint Clayton Bishop of Onset, Mass., who finished second, when I passed him. Only stopped once. Shoved in ten gallons of gas at Poughkeepsie, and kept a-comin'."

It was his seventh try for the $250 that goes to the winner in the race and a year's possession of the trophy.

For the others, 11 finished in nine classes, out of 115 starters, the race contributed its usual helping of danger and disaster. Two drivers were halted by fire, others arrived in New York so battered and helpless they had to be helped ashore.

But, unless it was absolutely impossible, they kept on coming. For like Eldredge, they wouldn't admit it was tough.

Cornell-Rescue Stars Play Tuesday

A large turnout of Seventh Ward fans is expected at Block Party Tuesday night when the Cornell Rescue team takes on the strong Barclay Knit Mill outfit. This game promises to be a "natural" for the season's opener at the downtown ball park. "Johnny" Snyder, last year's pitching sensation will toss them over for the combined hose companies, while the diminutive manager, "Jimmy" Woods, will receive his slants. The Knit Mill battery has not yet been announced.

The Cornell-Rescue club has a season ahead with a schedule that calls for games at Binghamton, Nanuoch, Newburgh and several parts throughout the eastern part of the state.

A new type of painters' canvas, said to be more durable than the ordinary variety, has been developed from flax by the Northern Ireland Research Association.

Tuesday evening the City Baseball League opens at the Athletic Field with Mayor Conrad J. Heiselman throwing out the first ball at 6:15 o'clock.

Opponents in the inaugural of the loop will be the Berardi A. C., the pennant winning club of 1935, and the Hedrick Brewers, last season's champions.

One of the largest turnouts of fans ever to attend the take-off of a City League is expected to crowd the field, which has been put into condition by the board of public works.

Those who attend the game are in for a real baseball treat, if the feeling of the players means anything in inguring a peppery duel between the two sets of champions.

Although the managers have not announced starting lineups, it is presumed that Julius Chick will pitch and George Zadany, catch, for the Berardi club.

Joe Brown, hurling ace of "Farmer" McDonald's Hedricks, probably will get the flinglug assignment for the brewers, with Joe Gardner as his catcher.

The rosters of the contesting clubs in the opener are.

Hedricks—Phil Komosa, Joe Brown, Milly Berardi, Bing Van Etten, Ky Embree, Jack Dodge, Johnny Quest, Bob Bush, Joe Gardner, Bob McLean, C. Travallo, Gil Kelder, Al Short, Norm Niles and Bob Zoller.

There will be a meeting tonight in the city hall at 7 o'clock to check over all arrangements for the opening of the league tomorrow.

Portions of the constitution of interest to the teams and fans are:

Article 2, membership—Sec. 2. The roster of each team shall be limited to 15 players.

Sec. 1. The names of the 15 players submitted to the secretary of the league must be carried through the first half.

By-laws.

Rule 5. Games shall be scheduled for 6:15 and any team not having at least eight men on the field by 6:30 p. m. shall automatically forfeit the game. In case of a forfeit, on the field, the players of either team refusing to play an exhibition game shall automatically forfeit the right of their team to collect the deposit of good faith at the end of the season.

Rule 13. Any teams desiring to postpone games must notify the secretary at 2 p. m. the day preceding the game.

HEDRICK BREWERS WILL WORK OUT THIS EVENING

The Hedrick Brewers will practice tonight at 6:30 on the Athletic Field. All members of the team are expected to be at the workout in preparation for the opening of the City League Tuesday evening.

10 YEARS A HERO: Decade Since New York-Paris Flight Has Failed To Dim Lindbergh's Fame

Lindbergh took off from New York May 20, 1927, and landed at Paris 33 hours and 29 minutes later. He is shown as he was greeted there by Myron T. Herrick, then U. S. ambassador to France.

Home, he toured the country in his "Spirit of St. Louis" in a campaign to make America air conscious. He visited at least one city in every state.

On May 27, 1929, Lindbergh married Anne Morrow, daughter of Dwight W. Morrow, U. S. ambassador to Mexico. The two men are shown together at a New York airport.

Mrs. Lindbergh, who obtained a pilot's license after their marriage, became her husband's flying companion. They are shown testing their plane for a flight across Canada, Alaska and Siberia to the Orient.

Tragedy struck the Lindberghs with the murder of their first child, Charles, Jr. The strain of those days shows on the flyer's face in this picture made during the trial which convicted Bruno Hauptmann of the crime.

Late in 1935, while Hauptmann awaited execution, the Lindberghs fled to England with their second son, Jon. There the one-time Lone Eagle is shown examining a new plane before flying to Copenhagen to demonstrate to a medical meeting the mechanical heart he helped invent.

This year the flying couple have continued their air tours with a leisurely flight from England to India. Touching North Africa, they stopped in Tripoli for a visit with Italo Balbo (left) who once led a squadron of Italian planes on a transatlantic flight to America.

Testimonial Plans For Father Brennan

Many plans have been formulated and developed in the past week with regard to the testimonial dinner which will be tendered the Rev. Francis P. Brennan on Wednesday evening, May 26, at the Governor Clinton Hotel. Mr. Brennan, a lifelong resident of this city, is to be ordained to the Roman Catholic priesthood an May 22 at St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York city.

As was previously announced, the dinner, an informal affair given by friends, in undenominational in character and open to all interested. Several speakers have been secured for the evening. Walter Donnarumma will serve as toastmaster. Vincent Connelly, who was president of the class of 1929 of Kingston High School, of which Mr. Brennan was a member, will say a few words on behalf of his classmates and friends. Dean John J. Stanley and the Rev. Henry E. Herdegen will speak to the gathering as representatives of the clergy. Bart C. Van Ingen, superintendent of schools, who long has been a friend of Mr. Brennan, will deliver the principal address of the evening.

A tasteful menu has been selected by the committee. A musical program is being arranged and should prove another of the enjoyable features of the evening. It is further planned to print a souvenir program of the occasion.

A more complete list of the dinner and reception committee than was previously announced is as follows: Catherine Brennan, Henry Buck, Dolores Cashin, Mary Clarke, Vincent Connelly, Robert Cullum, Robert Donnarumma, Walter Donnarumma, James Farrell, Bernard Feeney, Albert Flanagan, Lillian Gallagher, Raymond Garraghan, Andrew Gilday, Kathleen Golden, Bertha Herwig, Paul Joyce, John Kelly, Sherwood Lasher, Joseph McCann, Philip McDonald, Raymond Mino, Virginia Mullen, Mrs. John O'Connor, Margaret O'Meara, Margaret Neenan, John Shields, Dorothy Strubel, Mary Quigley and James Young.

Tickets can be obtained from any of the above. Reservations should be made before May 22, at which time they will be closed.
